Stevenson Wins Nomination As Harriman Sparks Big Boom

RALPH McGILL

Ailing McMahon Hears Nomination

CONVENTION HALL, CHICAGO, July 25—As the first free and open Democratic Convention since that of 1932 which nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt in this same city wrestled grimly and bitterly with the task of obtaining its nominees, word came that Senator Brien McMahon was dying in a Washington hospital and that the last words he had heard were those of his colleague, Senator Benton, nominating him on Thursday. He had seen, too, Senator Benton waving to him on the television screen, and had heard the big hall roar its approval. Then came coma.

This convention has had more theater than any before and has made even the Republican struggle seem pallid and polite. It has had walkouts and brawls, love feasts and feuds, and late Thursday night it came near barbecuing several thousand of its guests and delegates with a flash paper fire on the floor. And late Friday came the news that one of its nominees was dying with the sound of the convention cheers and the words of affection from his delegation as the last mortal sounds he was to know.

Deadlock Attempt

Senator Kefauver, whose campaign early this week became entirely captive of the left wing group in the Americans for Democratic Action and their counterparts in labor, fought in a coalition with Averell Harriman a last desperate and forlorn battle to deadlock the convention or so wear it out that it might turn to him.

The rest of labor had turned to Adlai Stevenson, but the left-wing faction came to Friday's balloting with the same tactics which had so exhausted the convention the night before. They stopped at nothing, and their plans were quite obviously worked out in considerable detail.

First, they had each unanimous delegation make a little speech with the casting of the vote. Then they resumed request for delegations to be polled, this being worked out in advance through members of the various delegations. Between times they had cheerleaders calling "We want Kefauver." Their idea was to try to wear out the convention, to deadlock it, and turn it to the Tennessean and certainly they had wearied it greatly. When delegations were polled the individual delegates also made speeches about casting their votes for the people's choice, and so on.

The polling took the longest time in convention history, almost four hours.

Resentment

So great was the resentment aroused by these tactics that they were reduced for the second ballot. This was the one on which the Tennessean hoped to make a considerable gain which might seem to be a trend and would bring more votes to him on later ballots. But, his increase was only 22½ votes, and there was not the slightest indication of a turn his way. It was his peak. Lacking entirely any Southern support, save that of his own state, the tall Tennessean remains a political mystery.

Some of the favorite sons were gone. One of them, Arkansas' Senator Fulbright, had withdrawn and 18 of his delegation went to Georgia's Senator Russell in what was part of a plan involving the vice-presidency from consideration for which the Georgian had withdrawn.

Then Harriman pulled out and threw his weight to Stevenson.

The breaking point was near at hand for the presidential nomination. The long, bitterly-fought Democratic convention was about to produce the candidate with which the party believed it could win in November. And Harry Truman was waiting in the wings to tell them so.

Russell Pledges To Work for Unity

By M. L. ST. JOHN
Constitution Political Editor

CHICAGO, July 26—Georgia's Dick Russell closed a great campaign for the Democratic nomination early Saturday with praise for Presidential Nominee Adlai Stevenson and a call for a united Democratic Party.

After Stevenson had accumulated enough votes to win the nomination on the third ballot, Russell, speaking as a delegate from Georgia, pledged to "work in the ranks for the success of the Democratic ticket next November."

The Georgian, who had been branded as "a sectional candidate" by many who admitted he qualified by experience and ability to be president, called on each and every Democrat to close "ranks together."

"Let us not make this a party dictated to or controlled by any one segment, but let us keep it a party of all the people," Russell said.

He was cheered as he took the platform to speak. He was given an ovation when he sat down.

Senator Russell began releasing his delegates at 11 o'clock Friday

Bandwagon Given Shove By Truman

CHICAGO, July 25—Several hours after his arrival here today President Truman began to work what one of his aides smilingly called "political magic" to start the bandwagon movement for Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

The dramatic announcement by Paul Fitzpatrick of New York, swinging Averell Harriman's strength behind Stevenson, was preceded by a steak dinner political conference in the nearby Saddle and Sirloin Club.

Among those with whom Mr. Truman conferred there were Fitzpatrick, who sponsored Harriman's candidacy originally; Col. Jacob M. Arvey of Chicago, Cook County political leader, and Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts.

AIDS WORRY

Prior to the announcement by the New York state Democratic leader, Truman's aides were concerned because Governor Stevenson had not picked up as many votes as had been expected after the first ballot. They were also surprised by strength shown by Senator Russell.

The President arrived at 3:59 p. m. Atlanta time, when Senator Kefauver was leading the other candidates for presidential nomination on the first ballot. Mr. Truman has been opposed to Kefauver as Democratic standard bearer from the beginning.

"How do you think it's going," asked a reporter after Mr. Truman had left his plane, the Independence.

"How is what going?" he retorted.

"The convention."

"Clear and warm," replied the President, laughing. The remark also described the weather at the airport.

LARGE PARTY

Mr. Truman left Washington with a fairly large party at 1:30 p. m. and was greeted here by a large group, including members of the cabinet, party officials, local officials and wives.

He spent 10 minutes shaking hands and posing for a large corps

U. S. Orders Building of B-36 Halted

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—The Air Force disclosed today that it is going to stop building the B-36 heavy - intercontinental bombers which caused a serious Air Force-Navy controversy in 1948.

All B-36's now in production will be completed in 1954 and no more of the heavy bombers will be ordered.

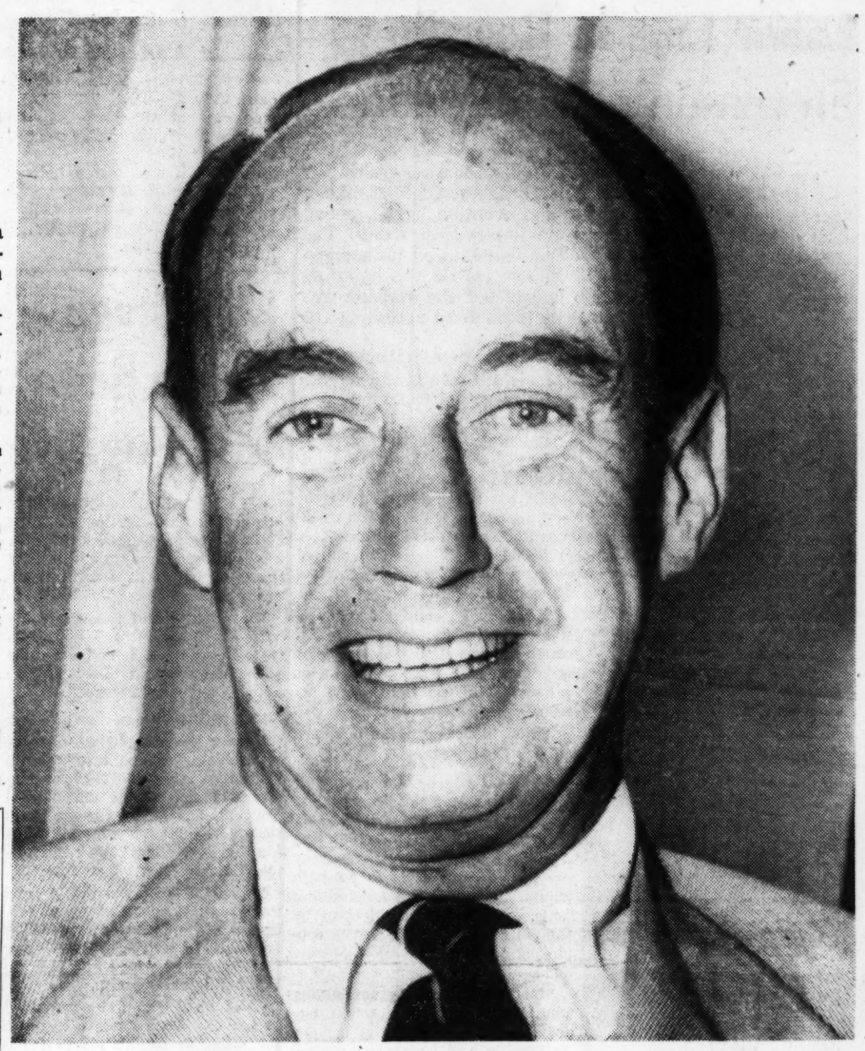

Air Force Undersecretary Roswell L. Gilpatric told Consolidated Vultee Aircraft that "other essential work" will be scheduled for its Fort Worth, Texas, plant where the B-36's are being built.

"The work load there, I can assure you, is certain to be substantial," Gilpatric said he told plant officials.

Gilpatric said this work would not only include models presently in and scheduled for production, but new prototypes. He apparently referred to the B-60, the all-jet version of the B-36 which now is powered by six conventional-type engines and four jet pods, and the B-52 heavy bomber.

Not all of the B-36's have been equipped with the jet pods.

The B-36 is credited with a speed of more than 435 miles an hour. The B-60 and B-52 presumably will be in the 600-mile-an-hour class and will have about the same range as the B-36.

Illinois Governor Adlai Stevenson

Kefauver Yeilds; Utah Puts It Over

By JOHN L. CUTTER

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 25—(UP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson captured the Democratic presidential nomination early today after Averell Harriman withdrew from the race and threw most of New York's big bloc of votes to the Illinois governor.

Immediately after Harriman's announcement, Senator Moody of Michigan said Senator Kefauver intended to ask the Democratic National Convention to nominate Stevenson. Kefauver tried to get to the lectern during the third roll call but was blocked by the chairman.

Upon completion of the third ballot, with Stevenson at 613, three votes short of nomination, Kefauver gained the floor to concede to the Illinois governor. However, a switch in the Utah votes put Stevenson over.

Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts, a favorite son candidate, also withdrew from the race and called on supporters to shift to Stevenson.

TRIPLE MOVE

The triple action clinched nomination for the reluctant 52-year-old Stevenson who had said he did not want it.

Harriman said he made the decision to switch strictly on his own after studying the first two ballots. Senator Lehman of New York said Harriman was convinced he could not be nominated and "wanted the best man among the contenders to win."

Kefauver had led Stevenson throughout the first and second ballots but not by much.

The first big switch on the third ballot came from the Arkansas delegation. It gave Stevenson 20½ votes and Kefauver 1½.

On the second ballot the Arkansas vote was Stevenson, 1½; Kefauver, 1½; Senator Russell, 18, and Harriman 1.

IOWA GAIN

Colorado, which had given Stevenson 3½ of 16 votes on the second ballot, gave him 8½ on the third. He also made a half-vote gain in Iowa.

In Maine he picked up 2½ and cut into the Maryland delegation for the first time to get six of 18 votes.

At that point, Senator Kerr with-

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 25—When the dam busts it busts.

That is an old political axiom. Hardly had the lights been turned on for the night session Friday when the dam at last began to bust.

Paul Fitzpatrick of the New York delegation got up and said he had a letter from Averell Harriman releasing his delegates and asking them to vote for Adlai Stevenson.

There followed Paul Dever, Governor of Massachusetts, himself a nominee, who said he wanted his friends to vote for the man who could beat Eisenhower.

With that cocktail the roll call was begun.

When California was reached the hard core of left wing support for Kefauver stood firm.

Here was the test.

California went all the way with Estes Kefauver.

The schedule was being adhered to. All along they had said two ballots would be untested to see what the strength really was.

Now the pressure was on. At the end of this ballot Stevenson had to look good.

The Kefauver people still were sniping from behind all trees. With

First Mustering Out Korea Checks Are Due Aug. 15

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—The Army said today it expects to mail the first mustering out pay checks to veterans of the Korean war about Aug. 15.

Under the new GI Bill of Rights passed by the recent Congress, about 500,000 Army veterans are eligible for mustering out pay. The Army said it expects to pay eligible men from its finance center in St. Louis at a rate of about 180,000 men a month. Applications will be handled on a first come-first serve basis.

Men with less than 60 days service will receive $100 under the act. Men with more than 60 days service who spent their active duty in the United States are eligible for $200 and men who served overseas will receive $300.

Ore Miners' Pact Snags Return to Steel Mills

By A. H. RASKIN
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 25—The longest and most costly steel strike in the country's history was officially called off today, but an unexpected snag over wage rates for 23,000 iron ore miners blocked the sending of union back-to-work orders to 600,000 striking steelworkers.

The last-minute difficulty, which both side hoped would blow over in a few hours, cast a shadow over settlement arrangements that had indicated the steel dispute might provide a foundation for a new era of co-operative labor-management relations in the industry that represents the backbone of the American economy.

With only one dissenting vote, the 175-man wage policy committee of the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, voted this afternoon to accept the settlement terms agreed upon at the White House yesterday by Philip Murray, president of the union, and Benjamin F. Fairless, president and chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

The agreement, which was personally announced by President Truman, provided a wage increase of 16 cents an hour, retroactive to last March 1; paid holidays, higher shift differentials and other "fringe" benefits that would

Allies Walk Out Of Truce Talks, Will Stay Week

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, July 26—(AP)—The Allied armistice team walked out of the Panmunjom conference tent today and said they would be back in a week.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harison made his declaration of a recess after the first open meeting of the truce teams which followed a long series of closed sessions.

The walkout came shortly after General Clark's headquarters in Tokyo issued a detailed resume of secret truce talks from July 4 through yesterday.

The secret sessions failed to produce any results Clark said, because the Communists "refused to recognize the inescapable fact that a large percentage of Chinese prisoners refused flatly to go back to their former masters."

Stock Car Driver Killed in Crash At Local Track

Russell Floyd Powell, 25, of 1065 Snyder St., N. W., who started racing stock cars only a week ago, was killed Friday night at the Peach Bowl track off Howell Mill Rd., police reported.

Powell had loosened his safety belt and was climbing out of his car as it spun to a stop after striking the grandstand, witnesses told police, when another car hit his vehicle, throwing him out. Two or three other cars ran over Powell, witnesses added.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady Hospital. Powell was driving in the 30-car feature race.

Cooler Nights Are Expected For Week End

The weather forecaster predicted "sleepable nights" for Atlantans over the weekend—but scorching temperatures are expected to prevail during most of the day Saturday and Sunday.

Thundershowers may bring temporary relief from the expected high reading of 92 degrees Saturday, he said. Saturday night's low is expected to be a refreshing 68. At the same time the forecaster said a mass of cool air is moving toward the South, but it may be several days before it reaches here.

Another record-breaking scorcher was recorded in the city Friday when the thermometer reached a peak of 99. This was the highest on record for July 25, breaking the previous all-time high of 95 degrees set in 1907.

7 Prisoners Indicted On Jail Terror Charge

Fulton County's grand jury Friday indicted seven prisoners who allegedly operated what investigators called a "kangaroo court reign of terror" within the walls of Fulton Tower.

The seven indicted on five counts of assault and battery each in connection with the alleged "punishment" of another prisoner, Billy Joe Richwine, are Grady Barnett, James A. Carroll, Troy Campbell, Curtis V. Henderson, Charles B. Hilburn, Harry Lee Kimble and Dan Tolbert.

Four other prisoners testified before the grand jury that they were subjected to "trial and punishment" by the seven-man court. They said they were forced to run through a belt line, were severely beaten and were compelled to take purgatives by members of the "court."

Solicitor General Paul Webb's office investigated conditions among prisoners in the jail after Richwine, at the insistence of his mother, filed a complaint last week.

The men were sent back to the jail and bond was fixed at $2,500 on each of the five counts of every indictment.

Egypt House Cleaning Reaching Into Palace

6 Farouk Aides Resign As New Strong Man Acts

By EDWARD POLLAK

CAIRO, Egypt, July 25—(AP)—Gen. Mohammed Naguib Bey's Army-backed governmental house-cleaning reached to King Farouk's own palace today. Six of the monarch's top aides resigned

At the same time, Egypt's new strong man moved anew to crush opposition to the lightning military coup by which he installed the anti-corruption government of Premier Aly Maher Pasha.

NEW CABINET

Maher Pasha's new Cabinet took over today, pledged to try to end the crisis which has swept this Middle East country for six months. The Cabinet hopes to end the corruption Maher Pasha said brought the crisis about and to settle Egypt's dispute with Britain over the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

In jail on orders of Gen. Naguib were five high-ranking police officials, accused of "conspiring to arouse trouble and undermine public security."

Also reported under arrest was Maj. Gen. Sirry Amer Bey, commander of Egypt's Frontier Corps. The report said he was caught trying to flee across the border.

OFFICIALS ARRESTED

Other unconfirmed reports said several top officials in the Ministry of Interior, which controls the nation's police force, also were under arrest.

(A part of the dispatch carrying this report was missing and may have been held up by military censorship. But monitors in Beirut, Lebanon, quoted the Egyptian state radio as announcing the arrest of two generals in the Internal Security Department—Gen. Abdul Munsef Mohammed, the assistant director, and Gen. Mohamed Imam Ibrahim, head of a special section—and the governor of Cairo, Gen. Ahmed Talaat. The jobs of all three of these men would come under the Ministry of Interior. The account quoted a communique from Gen. Naguib saying an attempted mutiny in the police and Army has thus been quelled.)

Georgia Tenor Quiets Uproar in Convention

CHICAGO, July 25—(AP)—Arthur Lee Simpkins, a native of Augusta, Ga., stilled the Democratic convention today when he sang the Lord's Prayer.

Simpkins, a Negro tenor and Augusta bank messenger, uses religious music in night club routines.

He was invited to sing by convention officials early today when the convention was in an uproar. Immediately the hubbub quieted.

Simpkins studied at Payne Institute in Atlanta, and at the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

Bomb Wins Membership In Red Cross

By MILTON BRACKER
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TORONTO, Ont., July 25—War and politics dominated today's session of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, comprised of the heads of National Red Cross organizations around the world.

In the morning the Australian Red Cross sharply criticized the UN command in Korea for blocking relief to South Korea. Liberalizing measures introduced since the month of May still left a "tortuous and involved" system, according to Alfred G. Brown, secretary-general of the Australian group, who said he would press the matter to the plenary level of the conference.

SOVIET DEFEATED

This afternoon with Communist China, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Rumania self-righteously backing the Soviet position, the Russians failed again in an attempt to condemn the alleged failure of the Western Powers in Germany to repatriate "more than 2,000" Soviet children.

Earlier the same five countries had argued vainly against the admission of the Red Cross Society of Western Germany—which had been assured in the test vote yesterday.

The attack on UN command policy regarding relief in Korea came after Count Bonabes de Rouge, executive secretary of the league, had sounded a hopeful note on the possibility of extending international Red Cross aid to North Korea. Noting that all previous efforts to get in touch with a Red Cross group in North Korea had failed, he cited the presence of a North Korean government group here as at least facilitating such a contact.

RED TAPE

The Australian spokesman, who visited Korea in April, said the requirements for shipping relief supplies to Korea constituted a "perfect example of circumlocution and red tape."

In simplest terms, Brown continued, there existed both millions of needy civilians in Korea, and outside Red Cross societies eager and able to send relief. He said a return to the traditional "free trade" among Red Cross groups was in order.

Mortimer Cooke, league co-ordinator for civilian relief for South Korea, pointed out that for eight weeks now, it had been possible to consign relief material direct to Korea, subject to the use of commercial transportation, with clearance from both the Korean government and the UN command.

Labor Late in Boarding Stevenson's Bandwagon

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

CHICAGO, July 25—Organized labor, looking like a powerhouse when the Democratic convention began, ended up as a trailer on the Stevenson bandwagon today. The Congress of Industrial Organizations announced its support of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois before the balloting for the presidential nomination began, but the decision was so tardy that it amounted to little more than accepting the inevitable.

"We are asking all the delegates who are CIO members to vote for Governor Stevenson as soon as they have fulfilled their legal and moral commitments," Jack Kroll, director of the CIO Political Action Committee announced shortly before noon.

ATTACK ON ADLAI

Even then some of the American Federation of Labor supporters of Senator Kefauver of Tennessee not only refused to concede success to Governor Stevenson but chose that late hour to loose the first public attack on him.

T. C. Carroll, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, AFL, distributed an anti-Stevenson statement this morning and read it at a meeting of AFL union members attending the convention.

The statement said: "Adlai Stevenson is obviously a very faint-hearted man, and further, Stevenson is not a candidate whom the working people of our nation would vote for, and therefore if he were to be nominated he would surely go down to a most crushing defeat on election day.

"Adlai Stevenson could not possibly carry the key industrial states of the nation because he is on record, time and time again, as a defender of the vicious and detested Taft-Hartley Act.

"Adlai Stevenson is an unknown outside of Illinois.

KEENLY RESENTFUL

"The American people are most keenly resentful of the despicable manner in which the will of the American people, as expressed by the people from coast to coast in primary elections and hundreds of polls, is being trampled upon by the sinister and stupid forces conspiring to put over Adlai Stevenson's nomination.

"If they succeed in nominating him, it will be a very hollow victory, for Adlai Stevenson is very vulnerable and cannot be elected in November. Last Sunday Mr. Stevenson himself stated that he is neither tempermentally, physically nor mentally qualified to be president of the United States. The American people must and do assume that Stevenson knows himself and they will accept his own estimation of himself. Therefore they would never vote for him to be president of the United States."

The labor leaders looked like a potent force as the convention opened. Their rejection of the candidacy of Vice-President Barkley led to his withdrawal from the field. They cited his age—74—and his backing by "reactionary" forces as their reasons.

LABOR'S DEMANDS

The party platform met most of Labor's demands, too. The declaration for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, without reservations, went farther even than President Truman's message to Congress in 1951 and 1952.

Beyond those two events Labor's power was largely wasted. It was used on losing candidates. George M. Harrison, an AFL vice-president and a delegate from Ohio, openly backed Averell Harriman, who had no reservations about Taft-Hartley repeal and other labor demands.

The CIO leadership privately preferred Harriman, too, but they played it safe on the record, declaring that any one of the three—Harriman, Kefauver or Stevenson—was acceptable

Most of the AFL people here, delegates or not, appeared to favor Senator Kefauver. Harrison was one of the exceptions.

One of the AFL officials who was "right" relatively early was David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers and first vice-chairman of the Liberal Party of New York. He had been a strong Kefauver man who early saw the Stevenson tide and came out for a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

Fire Flares in Convention Hall; Hope Sniffs Virginia Baked Ham

By BOB HOPE
Written Exclusively for International News Service

CHICAGO, July 25—(INS)—This Democratic convention is winding up just in time. Everybody's throat is gone from trying to out-yell the confusion these last couple of days.

One delegate's voice was so gone he sounded like he was eating a banana under water.

Some of the speakers really thundered. In fact they had a doctor running up and down the aisles with a roll of Scotch tape repairing ear drums.

There was a 50-piece orchestra in the Convention Hall. Petrillo was demanding a delegate and a half for overtime.

There was a fire in the Convention Hall last night. Virginia couldn't vote so they baked ham instead.

One of the more sociable moments was when Perle Mesta (that's Elsa Maxwell with portfolio) gave a party for the delegation from Rhode Island.

Four waiters brought in a huge casserole and when they took the top off there was a Republican with an apple in his mouth.

2 Hostage Police Seize FBI Fugitive

MIAMI, Fla., July 25—(AP)—George Arthur Heroux, 22, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals, was captured today after a wild chase in which he used two officers as hostages.

The capture and release of the hostages followed a bullet-punctuated chase which ended as the policemen swerved their car into a tree, stunning Heroux.

BANK ROBBERY

Heroux was sought on charges of robbing the South Side Bank in Kansas City, Mo., of an undisclosed amount of money last Nov. 10, and of making off with $62,000 in currency from the Johnson County National Bank in Prairie Village Kan., last Nov. 23.

Police Chief Barron Shields and Patrolman Robert Dubray of suburban El Portal were forced at gunpoint to drive Heroux away from a house where the officers began an investigation.

Chief Shields said he remained in his car when Dubray went to the house to inquire about a disturbance. He found Heroux and Mrs. Peter Bennett, the landlady, arguing about rent.

"I'LL KILL YOU"

Dubray reported that as he rejoined the chief, Heroux dashed up with a pistol and shouted: "I want to get out of town fast. Do what I tell you or I'll kill you."

He forced the officer to get in beside the chief and he made the chief drive off. A radio alarm soon warned all police cars.

Watching his chance, the officer swerved his car off the road and into a tree, stunning Heroux. Both the chief and Dubray jumped on the man and had him in custody when pursuing detectives pulled alongside.

TV Bares Convention Maneuvers

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Atlantans have been admittedly "surprised" and sometimes "disgusted" by the behind-the-scenes maneuverings they have seen via television at the two national political conventions—and most of them believe there ought to be some changes in the convention system.

Atlanta men and women polled by The Constitution were unanimous in giving TV credit for giving the people an insight into the vote-swapping, deal-making, pressure-exerting tactics used in selecting the "people's choice" for the presidential nomination.

Although they don't favor abolishing the convention system, many of those quizzed believe there should be "improvements."

PRIMARIES PREFERRED

Mrs. Charles Buchanan of 2586 Acorn Ave., N. E., said she believed there should be preferential primaries.

Dr. Lynwood Holland, head of the political science department at Emory University, said he also favored preferential primaries on a state basis. He also favors a more democratic way of naming convention delegates.

Mrs. Mildred Hulse, director of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, said the league office had received calls from a lot of people who were "disgusted" by the convention proceedings. But she said she thought it was wonderful that television had made people "conscious of their government."

"I would like to see preferential primaries," she said, "so that the people can have some voice in the nomination."

PRESENT METHOD 'TRAGIC'

Morris B. Abram, Atlanta attorney, said he believed it would be difficult to devise preferential primary laws in the states "which would be flexible enough to permit a convention coming later to nominate a candidate." He said he favored a nationwide preferential primary which would show the delegates of each party convention the No. 1 choice of the party members. He said it would be "inexpedient" then for the delegates to ignore the expressed wishes of the people.

Abram also believes the method of selecting delegates is "tragic" because the selections often are made by a party machine—not by popular will.

"I believe television," he said, "will make this the last series of conventions where the people have no choice in naming the candidates."

Mrs. Dan Byrd, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, believes the conventions this year have been "no better and no worse than those in the past—but many more people know about their operations because of television."

Margaret Calls Adlai 'A Very Fine Man'

PARIS, July 25—(UP)—Margaret Truman said today before the balloting began in Chicago that Governor Stevenson is "a very fine man," but whether he won or not she would support the Democratic nominee for president.

"I met Governor Stevenson during the last campaign," she said. "He's a very fine man, and he's done a very fine job."

Convention Pays Tribute To Truman

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 25—(UP)—The 31st Democratic Convention paid formal tribute to President Truman today by adopting a resolution pledging to carry on "his gallant fight for all the people."

The resolution, approved by unanimous voice vote, praised Mr. Truman for "seven critical years, years . . . of wise, fearless and stronghearted leadership in the fight for peace and progress in America and the whole free world."

National Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney presented the resolution to the convention in behalf of the party. The resolution said:

"We the representatives of the Democratic Party . . . tender to Harry S. Truman our sincere respect, our deep affection, and our warmest wishes for a long life blessed by the peace and prosperity which he has striven to achieve for all Americans.

"The Democratic Party pledges its determination to carry on President Truman's gallant fight for all the people . . . (and) we shall count on Harry S. Truman to lend his integrity, his humanity and his great fighting spirit to the counsels of the Democratic Party in years ahead."

U. S. Clubs Shut Doors In Iran

Closing Ordered As Rioting Swells

TEHRAN, Iran, July 25 (AP)—Seething, anti-foreign unrest led American clubs in Iran to close their doors today. The U. S. Embassy began indexing addresses and phone numbers of American residents.

A new demonstration developed against the British on this first Moslem Sabbath since Premier Ahmed Qavam fell and Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh, the Nationalist chieftain, regained the government's reins.

CRY AGAINST BRITISH

"Death to Churchill," shouted a Moslem religious group of 300 near the police-guarded British Embassy. "Down with Britain."

They ripped away street markers of Churchill Street, which has borne the British Prime Minister's name since the wartime Big Three conference at Tehran, and replaced them with signs reading Mossadegh Street.

Mossadegh, who usually does no official work on the Moslem Sabbath, summoned British Charge d' Affaires George Middleton to his big yellow brick home and talked with him two hours.

FRIENDLY CONFERENCE

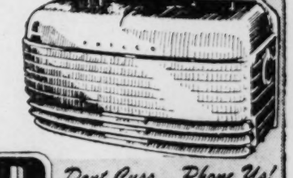

Middleton said the talk was friendly. He declined to disclose the subject but said speculation that it concerned the British-Iranian oil nationalization dispute was "not far wrong." Mossadegh won a legal point Tuesday in the ruling by the International Court of Justice that the court lacked jurisdiction to judge Britain's suit for compensation and damages.

Maj. Gen. Wayne Zimmerman, head of the U. S. Army mission in Iran, ordered the officers' and non-commissioned officers' clubs to close. A newly-opened American Club, available to all U. S. nationals in Tehran, also was shut down.

Harriman Sets Off Rush For Governor's Bandwagon

drew from the race because, he said, he had learned that Kefauver was ready to go on the platform and step out of the presidential sweepstakes.

Harriman, already withdrawn, came into the hall during a poll of the Massachusetts delegation. He went to the New York delegation, stood on a chair and waved his hands to the crowd.

At that time there was great jockeying for the vice-presidential nomination. It boiled down into a fight between the New Deal-Fair Deal wing of the party and the more conservative elements.

Senators Humphrey of Minnesota and Douglas of Illinois were trying to obtain the second spot on the ticket for the Tennessee senator. It all seemed to hinge on Stevenson's wishes.

NEW YORKER RISES

As the 31st Democratic national convention was about to start taking a third ballot, chairman Paul Fitzpatrick of New York arose and announced in Harriman's name:

"I am deeply grateful for the support given me. I came to this convention to fight for my nomination. I withdraw as a candidate and I urge my supporters to cast their votes for my old friend, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson."

Harriman, who waged an all-out New Deal campaign, won 123½ votes on the first ballot and polled 121 on the second go-round. Almost all of his strength was centered in the big New York delegation.

At the time Harriman threw his strength to Stevenson, the Illinois governor had 324½ known votes compared with 362½ for Senator Kefauver. Dever had 30½ votes on the second ballot.

REPORTED WILLING

Dever told the wildly cheering delegation that Stevenson had told him he would be happy to accept the nomination.

The reluctant Illinois governor had made no move on his own to capture the Democratic Party's top honor and had insisted up to the last that he did not want it. He wanted, he said, only to be re-elected governor of his state.

Governor Dever said he had "talked with the governor of Illinois" before deciding to withdraw from the race.

"I am asking those who supported me to cease in their support. I shall vote for Gov. Adlai Stevenson."

SUDDEN SHIFT

But Dever's announcement was anti-climactic after Harriman's sudden switch to Stevenson.

Harriman had teamed up with Kefauver in a liberal coalition to block the Stevenson bandwagon which had rolled into the Democratic convention after White House advisers told the United Press that President Truman was convinced the governor would win.

Furthermore, these advisers said, Mr. Truman will campaign for Stevenson this fall against Republican General Eisenhower and the GOP ticket.

Mr. Truman flew into Chicago during afternoon balloting and was due to present the nominee to the convention tonight to make his acceptance speech.

Throughout the third ballot turmoil in the huge International Amphitheater, Mr. Truman remained in a heavily guarded suite at the Stockyards Inn next door. He watched the proceedings on television.

In the midst of the roll call, Kefauver marched down the middle aisle of the hall and up to the platform. He was accompanied by Senator Douglas, one of his staunchest backers.

Apparently he was attempting to advance to the rostrum of the platform when he was met at the back of the platform by chairman Sam Rayburn.

Kefauver was led far back on the platform and Rayburn announced:

"There can be no interruption while a roll call is in progress."

As Kefauver walked down the aisle the hall rocked with roars and cheers.

Amid the turmoil, Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, convention parliamentarian, said that in his 30 years of attending Democratic conventions he had "never seen anything like this."

At the close of the second ballot the vote for the four leading candidates was: Kefauver, 362½; Stevenson, 324½; Senator Russell, 294, and Averell Harriman, 121. It takes 616 votes to win nomination.

LEADERS GAINING

The second ballot showed that Kefauver had picked up 22½ votes since the first balloting, Stevenson 51½ and Russell 26. Harriman had lost 2½ votes.

Russell backers were jubilant at his consistent showing in the first two ballots. They were convinced that it put the Georgia senator in a powerful bargaining position even if he was unable to win the nomination.

Southern leaders said they believed Russell held a balance of power which is "just as effective as the two-thirds rule." They referred to the two-thirds it took to name a nominee until 1936 when Franklin D. Roosevelt killed it.

Labor leaders, who midway in the balloting threw their support behind Stevenson, said they were confident that the Illinois governor would begin to show real strength by the fourth ballot.

They said that CIO United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther, a power in Michigan politics and a strong Stevenson backer, would confer with the state delegation during the recess. One labor man thought Stevenson might get nearly all of Michigan's votes.

Through the second ballot they went to Kefauver.

ALL-OUT PROMISE

The CIO promised to go all out to win Kefauver the vice-presidential nomination if he failed to get the top spot on the ticket. CIO delegates on the floor were so instructed.

Together with Democratic leaders they were hopeful of healing wounds in the strife-torn convention and throwing the weight of a united party at General Eisenhower and the GOP ticket in November.

There were no major switches on the second ballot. What changes there were came from one or two delegates in various states. Stevenson picked up a few votes in Ohio.

At the end of the first roll call Michigan, which had cast 40 favorite-son votes for its governor, switched to Kefauver.

As the second ballot started, Stevenson had been expected to pick up strength against the liberal Kefauver-Harriman forces, which have been fighting desperately to stop him in the closing days of this convention.

During the initial balloting, Russell accused Kefauver supporters of trying to delay balloting by having many delegations polled. He also charged Kefauver forces with trying to influence the convention through a telegram "blitzkreig" from all over the nation.

ROLL CALL

The first roll lasted nearly four hours as state after state demanded that its delegation be polled.

There were a few switches at the end of the first roll call, but not enough to start a landslide to any candidate.

At the start of the second ballot Senator Fulbright of Arkansas dropped out of the presidential sweepstakes.

Midway in the initial balloting Stevenson held a telephone conference with Governor Williams of Michigan and immediately the big Michigan delegation switched to Kefauver.

The nature of their conversation was not disclosed. But a spokesman for Stevenson denied that he had turned thumbs down on Kefauver as a vice-presidential candidate.

The combined forces of Stevenson, Russell and Kerr handed the Kefauver-Harriman liberal Democratic forces a series of crushing defeats last night and early today in a marathon convention session.

TEAM UP

Stevenson and the Southerners teamed up to get the Virginia, Louisiana and South Carolina delegations seated over the cries of the Kefauver-Harriman camp.

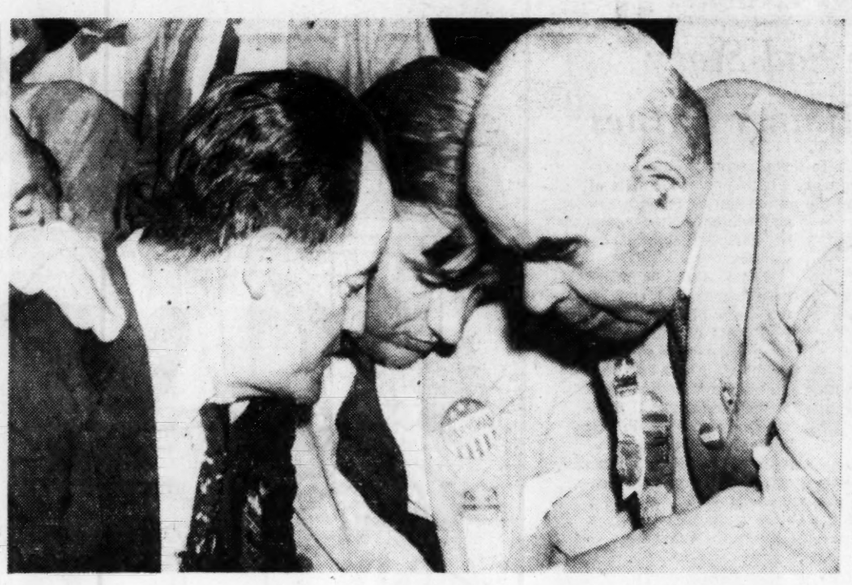

All three states had refused to take the disputed loyalty pledge which required them to do all they could to see to it that the party's nominees would be placed on the ballot in the fall election.

But they were seated anyway when the Stevenson-Russell-Kerr combine kept the convention in session until their mission was accomplished.

On the first ballot Barkley, who had withdrawn from the race when labor leaders denied him support, polled 48½ votes.

President Truman got six votes.

The delegates were weary as they gathered in Convention Hall to start balloting. The Thursday session started at 12:10 p.m., (Atlanta time), and did not end until 1:53 a.m. today.

Harriman Looses Tide For Adlai

Colorado they tried to slow it down with a poll of the delegation.

The Democrats get outraged. They howl like wolves to the homeless snows. They scream like hysterical women. They defy the elements. They cry out against bosses. They beat their breasts. They sob. They tear their hair.

GOP SERIOUS

It is very difficult not to love the Democrats. The Republicans are so proper. Their delegates are polite when they challenge the accuracy of the state votes, but not the Democrats.

They are outraged, they grow red in the face.

The chairman says:

"The delegates will get this test."

The Democrats' voices are strident and furious and one moment they seem to be ready to slit the throats of the men next them. The next moment they are hugging those men or women in admiration of Barkley. They never make any sense at all.

But they have been in office 20 years and they are full of vitality. And they are not yet, at any rate, a labor party.

I love the way they vote. Their voices are choked. They scream or are so full of tears and anger they cannot be understood.

HOWL TO CHAIRMAN

They howl to the chairman for points of order.

The chairman is patient with them. He knows that back of them are local emotions, loyalties and factions.

So he is patient.

The radio and television audiences do not and cannot know that.

The chairman is a Democrat. This is paternalistic. And the delegates know it.

Thursday night the South Dakota delegation, infected with the walkout virus, confused copy desks all over the nation by walking out. The news services must have been bothered by inquiries asking:

"Surely you must mean South Carolina."

The roll call went on.

Kentucky voted 26 for Barkley. His labor friends were not too wrong in telling him they believed he was being used. Obviously he was and is.

STEVENSON BACKING

Kentucky is for Stevenson.

Rumors came. And with them came Estes Kefauver. The word is Kefauver is to withdraw and receive the vice-presidency. That would mean that Stevenson, who can trade, has made a logical choice. The Southerners have been seated. Kefauver is more popular outside the South.

Ore Miners' Tieup Delays Return Of Steel Strikers

cost 5.4 cents an hour more and a modified union shop. The agreement specified that iron ore miners were to get all the same benefits, plus additional wage increases intended to bring their pay scales up to the steel level.

NEGOTIATION DEMANDED

It was this provision that caused the difficulty today. Under the agreement part of the difference in wage rates was to be made up at once and the rest at the end of the first year of the two-year pact. The exact amount to be given each year was not specified, but was left for subsequent negotiation. Company spokesmen said they understood that this negotiation was to take place after all the strikers returned, but the union insisted that the matter be decided today.

The total difference averages 12 to 14 cents an hour, and the parties were making frantic efforts tonight to straighten out the tangle so it would not stand in the way of reopening the steel mills and resuming shipment of iron ore. Some maintenance men were being allowed into steel plants, but the union delayed the sending out of formal instructions terminating the walkout.

54-DAY STRIKE

The steel strike was 54 days old when the union policy committee voted to ratify the settlement pact, but the iron ore tangle made it impossible to forecast how soon the blast furnaces would get back into operation. At best it will take two or three days to restore volume productoin.

The policy committee meeting was the scene of an unprecedented exchange of expressions of good will by Fairless and Murray. The company head was warmly applauded when he promised that his company would do everything it could to promote a more cordial working relationship in the future. Murray gave a similar pledge for the union.

Delegates Released By Russell

night as the Stevenson boom rolled toward the Democratic presidential nomination.

Governor Talmadge said the Georgia delegation and many other Southern delegations would vote for Russell until a motion was offered to make the Stevenson nomination unanimous.

CON PAGE ONE FINAL CITY ..

Russell again rejected pleas of Stevenson leaders to make him the vice-presidential nominee.

The big names of the Democratic convention paraded into Russell's temporary caucus room at the convention hall. Jim Farley, Jake Arvey, Rep. John McCormick, Governor Carvell of Maryland (supporter of Stevenson) and others conferred with Russell.

While the conferences were behind closed doors, it was reliably reported that attempts still were being made to persuade Russell to become the vice-presidential nominee.

NOT INTERESTED

Russell's friends said the senator reiterated he was not interested.

Russell's top campaign leaders—Senators Johnson of Colorado, Mathers and Hollard of Florida, Hill and Sparkman of Alabama and Hugh White of Mississippi—were in the meeting.

Russell sped to the convention hall sbortly after 10 o'clock with a police escort screaming and two carloads of newsmen in the procession. As he left his headquarters in the Conrad Hilton Hotel — changing previously announced plans not to go to the convention hall — the senator told reporters that some of his friends had asked him to come to the hall.

KEFAUVER CALLS

He also, in answering other questions, said that Kefauver had called him three times during the afternoon and that he had also talked with Senator Kerr. He did not amplify these remarks.

On arriving at the hall, Russell was met by Governors Talmadge and White, and rushed into the private caucus room.

The senator planned to take his seat as a Georgia delegate and state his position to the convention on the next roll call, he said.

Earlier, before Averell Harriman had started a switch to Stevenson, Russell had been heartened by his showing on the first two ballots.

He had 294 votes on the second ballot, a gain of 26 over his total in the initial poll.

913 Children Given Anti-Polio Test Shots

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb., July 25—(AP)—Doctors inoculated 913 Dakota County children here today in the first day of an anti-polio serum test.

Marion Lockwood, Dakota County polio foundation chairman, said only 1,003 shots of gamma globulin had originally been allotted to South Sioux City but said more serum was allocated to the area today and 600 more children would be given shots tomorrow.

The test is a continuation of one held earlier this week in Sioux City, Iowa, to determine whether the serum can help prevent the crippling brought on by the disease.

of cameramen. The party motored the nine miles to his headquarters in the Hotel Blackstone.

Mr. Truman remained in the hotel and then drove to the Saddle and Sirloin Club near Convention Hall at 7:15 p. m., where he had dinner at a small private party. He stayed at the dining club until it was time for him to address delegates. Then he walked to the hall, a distance of 70 yards.

Mrs. Truman came here with the President. Tomorrow they will leave by air for their home in Independence, Mo., where he will remain until Aug. 5, Missouri primary day. After voting he will return to Washington.

Soybeans in Diet Build Big Soldiers

TAIPEH, Formosa—(AP)—The addition of 100 grams of soybeans per day to the diet of Chinese Nationalist soldiers has increased their weight, says the Mutual Security Agency here, which had a hand in the nutritional experiment.

More than 15,000 soldiers participated in the three-month experiment. The average gain was 10 pounds per man, the MSA said.

The Democrats Pick a Winner

Out of the lusty brawling of the Democratic National Convention, the delegates have selected a candidate who can win. Gov. Stevenson of Illinois is untainted with the bitter controversy which surrounded the convention and is its chief beneficiary.

Adlai Stevenson comes from a family that has been prominent in America since Colonial days. His forefathers helped to build the nation, some of them attaining positions of great importance and trust. His grandfather served as vice-president under Grover Cleveland and his great-grandfather arranged the Lincoln-Douglas debates from which emerged the modern Republican party.

A graduate of Princeton, he spent his early years in various pursuits, including work with the family newspaper, The Pantagraph, at Bloomington, Ill. He became a successful attorney before being drafted into the public service during World War II by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. This was followed with service in the U. S. State department, where he helped to lay the foundations for the United Nations.

Drafted by the Democrats, he was elected governor of Illinois in 1948 in a traditionally Republican state by the biggest majority in its history. He polled 500,000 more votes than did President Truman, and has been an outstanding chief executive. His administration has been chiefly concerned with war on corruption, extravagance and crime. He has been highly successful in that task.

He would make a good president, possibly a great president, of the United States.

John L. Reminds Us Of Fall's Approach

As if we haven't had enough troubles—the efforts of the steel strike, the political hassle, trying to keep cool—along comes word that John L. Lewis and his miner boys are getting set to strike about Sept. 20.

As we expected, and had predicted, the coal miners have their eye on the wage hikes that steelworkers are about to get and have decided that they deserve some of the same.

The prospects are that once the miners walk out they will be out for awhile. The demand for coal is not what it used to be. Consequently, the price is low, so is the margin of profit. Mine operators are going to be reluctant to give a wage raise.

Another factor pointing to a long strike is that the average stockpile would last more than two months.

Under present conditions that coal stockpile is not going to be cut by an unusual demand—at least not for heating purposes.

Anyway, the talk of a coal strike is in the air along with "back-to-school" conversation and other sure signs that we are well on the way to fall.

Costly Steel Strike Need Not Have Been

Despite our thankfulness that the disastrous steel strike is ended, the thought persists that it was unnecessary. The walkout resulted from a combination of blunders and mismanagement such as we have not witnessed in many months.

The strike has dealt a major blow to America's defense plans and to the nation's economic stability. The losses will run into billions by the time the full bill is paid. The cost to the American people would have financed several months of the Korean War.

The agreement follows the basic pattern of the formula worked out by Bethlehem officials and workers five weeks ago and subsequently rejected by Phillip Murray. The pity is that an acceptable formula had to be dragged out for weeks because of haggling over minor points that did not materially affect the contract.

The workers will receive a 16-cent increase in pay with many fringe benefits and a modified union shop arrangement which seems fair to the union and to industry. The $5.20 a ton increase in the price of steel will be passed on to the consuming public and to the taxpayers through increased costs in the defense effort.

As we have pointed out here many times, the biggest mistake made during the fight was government interference as a partisan.

Intervention, even if successful, has been proved impractical. It may advance one side or the other temporarily, but in the long run it creates ill-feeling on the losing side, lessens the confidence of the public, and thus destroys effectiveness of government arbitration intended to keep the scales even.

The steel strike is settled. The haunting fact remains that it need not have occurred.

Soviets Urge That Maids Be Chary With Kisses

A kiss can be a dangerous thing.

In California the other day when a motorist tried to kiss his girl, his car skidded 321 feet, jumped a curb, hurdled a wall, smashed through a two-foot brick pillar and came to a stop against a house. The story didn't say if the driver attained his original purpose.

The Communists know something about the hazards of kissing. They have warned Russian women that Western espionage agents frequently use courtship methods to learn Soviet secrets.

Anna Welch, leader of the women's committee of the Soviet zone railway system, told a Communist women's meeting: "Our unmarried colleagues should make certain their friends and sweethearts are ideologically safe."

She sternly urged that Soviet spinsters exercise extreme caution.

We have a strong feeling, though, that her warning will not make all Red lips kissproof.

Iranians Are Warned Of Reds' 'United Front'

Fears that the Communist Tudeh Party might engineer its proposed "united front" with nationalist forces in Iran have been allayed temporarily. Premier Mossadegh's new director of police has warned the nation of such a development, although he has not yet completely checked it.

Such a move, as the world knows from experience, usually ends in a Communist "united front" and the destruction of the other members of the coalition. We saw it happen in Czechoslovakia and many other countries now behind the Iron Curtain. They begin by infiltration and end up with absolute control.

As nationalist stubbornness, exemplified in Mossadegh, continues to add to impoverishment of the Iranian people, there is always danger of a Communist coup. The situation in Iran was made to order for the Reds, although we are still hopeful that eventually a settlement can be reached insuring Iran's continued alignment with the free world.

There is hope in Mossadegh's apparent realization that Tudeh Party members are Communist wolves in nationalist clothing who would drive out the West only to let in the Soviets.

Livestock Quotations Make Political Thunder

Even as the platform speakers in Chicago this week sang the praises of the Democratic administration and its record of the last 20 years, there was convincing campaign ammunition on the market pages of the Chicago papers.

"Advancing Prices for Hogs" said the headline on a story which reported that Thursday 200 to 250-pound porkers sold for $23.75 a hundred.

The record sounds good from the platform, but the farmers pay more attention to the word from the stockyards across the way from Convention Hall. And as they hear it, they remember the $3 hogs of 1932 and 1933.

The livestock quotations make powerful campaign oratory. The farmers are listening.

The Secret Ballot In South Carolina

South Carolina Democrats have been held in the firm grip of their party's regulations for so long that many citizens are still somewhat confused over the "freedom to vote" as they please and in secret at the November general election.

The oath which voters in the July 8 primary took simply bound them to support the nominees of that primary election in the general election. Presidential nominees are not selected in state primaries. It follows that a Democrat can support Democratic nominees of his choice for congressional and local offices in the November general election and at the same time "jump the fence" and vote for the Republican nominee for president if he or she so desires.

Democratic and Republican nominees will be listed on the same ballot for the first time and the voter will prepare his ballot in secret. That's what the new election law means for South Carolina voters.

The Sad Story Of Jimmy Byrnes

CHICAGO—In the personal political tragedy of a man once high in the councils of his party and the nation can be found a key and symbol of the amazing 1952 Democratic convention.

Much that happened here begins and ends in the story of Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, one-time House member, senator, Supreme Court justice, chief of the World War II civilian command in the White House, and secretary of state. Embittered finally with his one-time Senate friend, President Harry Truman, he broke with him and got elected governor of his native state to organize a 1952 Southern rebellion. He came here to Chicago for an expected triumph, a last dramatic stand of a brilliant career.

Instead, he was killed by kindness. His Southern allies were picked off one at a time and brought into the party fold by a series of skillful compromises. At the end he found himself cornered, hardly realizing how it had all been done. He was a helpless captive with his back figuratively to Fort Sumter and with an irresolute and small army, including his own South Caroline delegation, biting and snapping at his weary heels.

This was the end of a drama with elements of a Greek tragedy. For great, indeed, and sad was the fall. It was the symbolic climax of a series of beautifully executed maneuvers, typical ironically of Jimmy Byrnes himself in his heyday. Thereby the convention managers, with guidance from President Truman in the White House, brought a strange new harmony into the Democratic Party in the face of a crisis in its affairs.

One of its many ironies is that a man who is not a Democrat at all, and not even a professional politician, was the background figure who forced the party leaders here to act as they did.

This was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican nominee. He had raised such a threat to the Democratic Party in the South that countermeasures were necessary. This became the chief concern of the President and his lieutenants on the ground.

When Democratic managers here, including national Chairman Frank E. McKinney and shrewd congressional leaders and local party bosses, were confronted with the Eisenhower threat at the convention's outset they also found a helpful idea in something else that had happened at the Republican convention.

This was the issue raised by the Eisenhower managers over the Southern Republican "rotten boroughs." The Democrats had a Southern "rotten borough" scandal of their own in Dixiecrat plots to keep the name of the regular Democratic nominees off the party ballot as happened in a few cases in 1948.

For their purposes, the managers had at hand agents who would exploit this party skeleton with no prompting. These were Northern and Eastern elements of the party who raised the so-called loyalty pledge issue. The party managers let this agitating element in for a short run, long enough to threaten the South but not long enough or in gory detail enough to offend it.

Ushers, Police Did a Good Job

CHICAGO—Like good deeds in a sordid world, the young ushers who herded the mobs at the Democratic Party's repulsive rites of nomination and the Republican travesty of two weeks before, shone above this rabble with a mien of unmistakable character and class. The Chicago policemen also were several cuts above their wards with the badges and fool's caps and far superior to the porcine dignitaries of both sexes on the high altar of democracy.

The Chicago cop is a victim of his own slouchy dress and bearing which give him a superficial seeming of undiscipline and unreadiness for come-whatever. Like the American generals in W. W. II, who designed their own costumes, often, it seemed, with chic suggestions from some winsome chauffeuse, these fellows seem to dress according to whim rather than formal regulation. One cult among them wore the standard blue, with blouse, but traffic men wore long pants and gray shirts, while another sect, the noisy motorcycle cops, went shuffling with a cowboy gait in cavalry bloomers and sweaty shirts, their accoutrements clanking like jallopies on a railroad crossing.

The habits of this gendarmerie permit smoking on patrol in the streets and gossip with comrades and civilians in startling violation of police and military tradition. They were, nevertheless, surprisingly polite, eager to please and highly efficient in their management of traffic.

The gismo of the whole command of all habits and specialties was Capt. Redmond Gibbons, whose job beset him with poignant social and diplomatic problems.

In fact, Andy Frain, the contracting chief usher and marshal of the famous elite corps which now ennobles his name at many American galas, was jabbed stoutly in the diaphragm with a rolled newspaper in the meaty hand of a determined lady Democrat and horizontalized briefly when he tried to repel a wave of crashers on opening night. Mr. Frain had orders to admit only 150 head for each spontaneous popular demand but when he tried to stem the rush the stampede overran him.

Mr. Frain is a phenomenal specialist. The Frain usher service has developed into the remarkable staff which at these two conventions included 25 young men who are taking preliminary studies for the Catholic priesthood at Quigley Seminary. The rest were all either college students or advanced high school men and most of the corps were over six feet tall. They were clean, alert, polite, highly respectable and unmistakably superior as a group to the specimens gathered here with the effrontery to try to impose a president on the United States.

'Well! This Is a Surprise!'

Will Dewey's Chicago Victory Prove Costly to GOP, Helpful to Democrats?

Cincinnati, Ohio—To see with clarity, through the media of television, how a politician controls a delegation and a convention is a disheartening and disillusioning experience.

Thomas E. Dewey's starring role in 1952 has undoubtedly set the Republican Party back another 20 years.

For 15 years, since reaching my "majority," I have voted Republican. I am a registered Republican.

I am a native of the state of Georgia. I respect the courts of my state. The carefully laid plan to "capture Dixie for Ike" questioned the integrity of the judiciary of the state of Georgia.

In securing Georgia's 17 convention votes, It did not matter to Mr. Dewey and his "combine" whose integrity was questioned. They could not afford to lose the South to Taft so they raised the cry of "steal." The premise upon which the so-called "Langlie amendment" was based and the statement that Mr. Dewey drew up and corralled a group of governors into signing concerned the "great moral issue involved."

It was perfectly legitimate for Mr. Dewey the candidate to develop a personal steamroller in 1944 and 1948. The convention rules needed no altering them—they served him well!

Both in 1944 and 1948 there were disputed Southern delegations whose cases were heard before the credentials committee and the national Republican committee for settlement.

In 1952, Dewey refused to recognize the decisions of these official Republican committees which had been appointed by his victorious 1948 convention. It suited his purpose to repudiate them and to question their honesty!

This ruthless strategy, under the guise of "fair play" was politics at its worst.

Reuther Accused of Trying To Be Political Dictator

Tampa, Fla.—An open letter to Walter Reuther:

It seems quite obvious that you and the other labor leaders are trying your best to become little dictators in the great Democratic Party. From little dictators you would like to become the dictators. It is quite plain that you and your associates are not interested in the welfare of the country or the Democratic Party; you are all making a lot of noise, so that the rank and file of labor becomes impressed with your self-importance.

You made a statement how labor rang door bells and printed hand bills for the election of President Harry S. Truman. You forget that nonunion people voted for the President also. There are more nonunion workers in this country than there are union workers. You rang door bells in Ohio against Senator Taft of Ohio, didn't you? You rang door bells in Florida for Sen. Claude Pepper, didn't you? You rang door bells in Virginia for candidate Miller, didn't you? You see, Mr. Reuther, you are not as strong as you believe you are.

This political fight that is being waged at this year's Democratic convention can be the end of the Democratic Party that we all were so proud to support. This convention looks to me that it is the Democrats versus the opportunists. I think that when our nation's outstanding vice-president withdraws from the political field due to the pressures of minority groups, this nation of ours is going the way of European countries that have splinter parties. We have become the greatest nation in the history of mankind with the two-party system. With you and your kind, we are headed for at least a three-party system.

God Does Not Change, It's Only Mankind Who Wavers

Lavonia—To the "Perplexed Theology Student" let me say you may know theology, but you certainly display a lack of knowledge of the Bible. Solomon, like most other men, did not use the wisdom God gave him, and he did many things that were displeasing to God.

Please read Matthew 19:4-9, and Mark 10:5-12, and see what the Son of God says about how many wives a man shall have, and what God thinks about a man or woman leaving their wife or husband and marrying another.

Men all down through the ages have perverted God's laws, and tried to make them conform to their desires and whims.

No, my friend, God does not change. Men do, and try to make others think that it is God. BOB STOVALL.

Every True Democrat Is Ready to Stand With South

Seymour, Ind.—Every true American Democrat, whether he be from the South or the North, East or West, is looking toward the South today. Will the great patriots of the South stand "pat" as did the great Andrew Jackson at New Orleans and fight the gang that would destroy our freedoms?

I shall follow the South—if they walk I shall walk with them. I have raised 12 children—nine of whom are voters. I can boast 30 grandchildren, but what promises have we in America for our children when the party in power will turn upon their own people and undertake to whip them into submission. Those are the methods used, we thought, only behind the Iron Curtain but now the Iron Curtain would spread itself over our own dear land.

If the Democrats of my own state will join with such evil forces then I shall plan to get on the Eisenhower bandwagon, and after November you can watch out for me down in "Dixie" for my song will then be "Dixie Here I Come."

The Northern Donkey Eats Leaves From Olive Branch

Bethlehem, Ga.—Once again the Democratic South has marched valiantly to the North, olive branch extended, only to have the New Deal-Fair Deal donkey eat the leaves off. We are left holding only the skeleton of our hopes and dreams.

As warm-hearted people, we are inclined to forget that the North won the war, but every four years we are forced to face the fact.

We have two choices, either take what they offer or walk out.

This time we offered them a man who would have made a good president for the United States.

They call him sectional just because he is from the South.

Of course, Illinois is not a section nor New York nor anywhere except below the Mason-Dixon Line.

I say to them, "Keep your chin up if you die hard." MRS. GRACE EDWARDS.

Accident Close-Ups Sound Ominous

Accident prevention is the soundest part of any safety campaign. Oregon has taken to the airwaves in this phase of its continuing program to promote safer driving.

The Oregon state police send a special team with recording equipment into traffic courts and hospital wards, sometimes even to the scenes of actual arrests for traffic violations, to get material for dramatic tape-recorded radio programs. The show, titled "You Never Know," is broadcast regularly by 26 Oregon stations.

The on-the-spot recordings include courtroom depositions and interviews with those hospitalized by highway smashups. The microphone may be present at the arrest of a speeding motorist or taken into a prison to record the remarks of a person serving a sentence in connection with a traffic accident.

We are relieved to note that language slips are edited out of the unrehearsed scenes. It wouldn't do to broadcast the remarks of some drivers after they are ordered to "pull over."

But the reminder should serve as a grim warning to listeners of the consequences of careless driving.

The Debt Owed To the Church

Sometime ago I had the privilege of preaching in Smyrna Church in Wilkes County. It is a little white church that has a very special place in my heart. One Saturday morning at the close of his sermon my father said, "If any present want to give their hearts to Christ and join the church, come and give me your hand."

I was only 6 years old at the time and I could not explain the doctrines of the church, but I did feel I wanted to belong. So I went forward. My father, a very wise and good man, put his arm around me and said, "Son, I am glad you came." I was received into the membership of that little country church.

As a boy I went to Sunday school. Especially do I remember a class to which I belonged when we lived in Winterville. There were seven little boys in the class and we had a good teacher. He took us fishing and possum hunting. Once he took us to Stone Mountain and climbed with us to the top. He told us about Christ in terms that a boy could understand.

When I finished high school, Papa had very little money for college expenses. But the church had a college at Young Harris which took me in and helped me to get through. Later for me came Wofford and Emory, other schools the church had provided.

The summer I was 18 years old I preached my first sermon. It was at Whitesville, a church on the Chipley circuit. The next summer I was sent to Whitesburg as the pastor. I didn't know how to preach but they took me, loved and prayed for me and got me started.

Through the years the church has given me places to serve. Because of the church I have had a life purpose and the opportunity to use what talents and energies I have in a cause bigger and greater than my own selfish interests. The best friends I have ever had, I have made through the church.

Because of the church, I have had wide opportunities of service. By putting my resources into the program of the church, I have helped to build hospitals, homes for orphan children and for the aged, schools and colleges, and helped render all types of spiritual and social service. By being a part of the church I have been able to help preach the gospel unto the uttermost parts of the earth.

At the altar of the church I married my wife. Today the church is helping me to claim my children for Christ and the better life. Through the years I have put a tithe of my income back into the program of the church. However, that tithe does not even pay the interest on the debt I owe the church.

All that I am and have I owe to the church. It is an imperfect institution but I love it and to it I am giving the only life I have. I support it with my prayers, my presence, my gifts and my service. Since I can remember, I have never missed going to church on Sunday, except when I was sick in bed. I will be at church tomorrow.

West Point On the River

My apologies to the citizens of West Point, Ga. I have had this textile town, birthplace of poet Anderson Scruggs, golfer Dot Kirby, footballer Howard Ector and real estate reporter George Erwin, on the wrong side of the Chattahoochee. I had believed it to be on the east bank, separated from its sister city, Lanett in Alabama, by the flowing stream.

But when I went there this week with George Erwin, I found the town cradled between the river and the state line. George says it has been that way all the time. He should know, for he lived in West Point when the city's enterprising Seventh St. was called Mullet Ave.

Mullet Ave. up to date is the spruced-up home of businesses like the appliance store of Schaefer Heard and John Williams (his father was commissioner of internal revenue in the Woodrow Wilson administration) and what Schaefer Heard calls "the best haberdashery between Montgomery and Atlanta."

Down there in the Chattahoochee Valley are not two sister cities, but sextuplets—West Point in Georgia, Lanett, River View, Langdale, Shawmut and Fairfax in Alabama—40,000 people in a half dozen almost contiguous municipalities and the eight or nine mills which make this one of the South's greatest textile manufacturing centers.

AT WEST POINT in 1902 a 15-year-old Alabaman named J. Roy McGinty went to work as utility man on the Valley-Times News. The year 1952 is his 50th in the newspaper business. Of those 50 years, 23 have been as publisher of The Calhoun Times.

When the Georgia Press Association met recently in Savannah, the members honored their distinguished fellow, J. Roy McGinty, by giving him a token in silver of their appreciation of his service—as a past president of the association, as an ever-present and valued guide in its business sessions, as a charming conversationalist and companion when events turn social, as a warmhearted, dependable, personal friend.

Surely the recognition was deserved. Roy McGinty has been and is an honor to his profession, to his community and his state. The Georgia Press Association, Gordon County and Calhoun, and Georgia at large can be thankful for the day that teenage Alabama boy crossed the state line and got himself smeared with ink at the West-Point-Lanett newspaper.

3 Congregations Do Well Despite Pastors' Absence

By ANNE GOWEN

Three of Atlanta's largest churches have been pastorless for more than two months, but they haven't suffered any appreciable loss in attendance or interest.

All three, All Saints Episcopal, First Presbyterian and First Baptist, have assistant pastors and professional staffs who have lent continuity to their church programs.

First Baptist has been inviting a series of guest ministers to fill the pulpit each Sunday, while a special committee meets as often as five times a week to consider ministers they might recommend to the congregation.

"We were pleasantly surprised when our attendance and offerings remained substantially the same with a different preacher every Sunday," John Hurt, chairman of the pulpit committee, remarked.

All Saints is "not in a big hurry to get a new rector," according to prominent laymen Rutherford Ellis. "Fortunately we've had Dr. Allen Albert with us each week," he said. Dr. Albert is personnel director at Lockheed and an Emory faculty member.

The Rev. A. Allen Gardner, assistant pastor at First Presbyterian, has been preaching at most services there.

Emmanuel Pastor

The Rev. Frank C. Jones has been installed pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

He is a native of Columbia, S. C., and a graduate of Philadelphia Lutheran Seminary. He served as student pastor at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer in the summer of 1950.

Korean Missionary

The Rev. John Edward Talmage, Korean missionary, will speak on "Three Crosses in Korea" at 11 a. m. Sunday at Columbia (Seminary Chapel) Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Mr. Talmage, who was born in Korea of missionary parents, completed his ministerial studies at Columbia Seminary and served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Winder. In 1936 he became a missionary for the Southern Presbyterian Church.

After his station was overrun by Communists, he served as chaplain of ROK units with the U. S. 25th Division and worked with Koreans in reconstructing homes and churches.

29th Anniversary

A church which began its work in 1923 with a congregation of 42 in a store building, will celebrate ith 29th birthday anniversary Sunday.

Virginia Avenue Baptist Church now has 900 members and holds services in the sanctuary at the corner of Virginia Ave. and Ponce de Leon Pl., which was built in 1949 at a cost of $150,000.

After a special service conducted by the Rev. J. Omer Jones, basket lunches will be served.

Camp Assembly

Methodist children's workers in Atlanta are making plans to attend their annual assembly at Camp Glisson near Dahlonega Aug. 15-17.

Mrs. Mayes Frey, director of children's work of Atlanta-West district, is chairman of the assembly. She will be assisted by Miss Lida Malone, conference director of children's work.

Faculty members will include the Rev. A. L. Gilmore, Mrs. Charles Roberson, Mrs. J. A. Gray, Mrs. E. H. LeVert Jr. and Mrs. Hayward Cox, all of Atlanta; Mrs. R. P. Segars of Marietta and Mrs. Hartley Davis of Macon.

Tabernacle Series

A series of pertinent messages is being brought to Baptist Tabernacle at 7:45 p. m. each Sunday by the pastor, Dr. Paul S. James.

His topic Sunday will be "The Issues of the Hour," and on Aug. 3 he will speak on "The Bible and World Need." Choirs of the church, directed by Dr. Jack B. Jones, will render special music.

Buckhorn Methodists

DUBLIN, July 25—The Rev. J. Alton Davis will be guest minister at the revival services which begin at the Buckhorn Methodist Church Sunday. The pastor is the Rev. C. B. Studstill.

Members of the board of stewards are E. B. Collins, Thomas Darsey, Arthur Stripling, Mrs. Dorothy Waldrep and Joe Stripling.

'Torture Slayers' Found Guilty By Tampa Court

TAMPA, Fla., July 25—(INS)—A Tampa pigeon raiser and his wife today were found guilty of second degree murder for beating, hanging and starving the woman's 4-year-old son for 60 hours before death ended his ordeal.

The 12-man jury deliberated one hour and 15 minutes before bringing in the verdict against John and Alice Cliffe. The panel made no recommendation of mercy for the couple, who could be sentenced to from 20 years to life for the crime which each said was conceived in the mind of the other.

Anti-Liquor Forces Win $280,000 Trust

ST. LOUIS, July 25—(AP)—Prohibition got a shot in the financial arm today.

A Circuit Court ruling held that a $280,000 trust created in the will of Dr. Francis L. Stuever after he died in 1928 in Vienna must be used to further the cause of prohibition in Germany, Austria and the United States.

St. Louis University had claimed the trust fund as the residuary legatee of Miss Celia Stuever, daughter of Dr. Stuever who received the principal portion of her father's estate. It was provided that the trust must be established upon her death which came in 1948.

Soviets Deny Lutherans Right To Attend Parley

HANNOVER, Germany, July 25—(AP)—The second Lutheran World Federation Assembly opened tonight.

Thousands of persons turned out to watch a procession of black-robed Lutheran dignitaries lead delegates from 24 countries throughout the free world into Hannover's 700-year-old Market Church. The world federation represents 46 million Lutherans.

Absent were Lutherans of East Germany and Russian satellite countries, whose Communist governments refused to give them travel permits. Only one East German Lutheran leader—Bishop Niklot Beste of Mecklenburg — was permitted to attend. Two other East German churchmen who already were visiting in West Europe also came to the assembly.

Bells of the Lutheran churches throughout West Germany rang out as the ceremony, attended by 1,500 persons, began in the candle-lit church. Hundreds stood outside the packed church in the rain and sang religious songs during the service.

U. S. Motorist Analyzed By Observant Britisher

Pushers, Poachers, Pouters Tantalize Timid Blighters

BY BERT PIERCE

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, July 25—An observant Englishman's appraisal of 80 per cent of drivers in America is divided into three categories, pusher, poachers and pouters.

Another 10 per cent is termed "timid blighters who turn the other cheek so often that they get cricks in their necks." The remainder is checked-off as tolerably good. The visitor's views were given today in a series of commentaries. He requested he remain in obscurity so as not to cast a shadow on the good relations existing between the Americans and Great Britain.

Nor was he coaxed into the spotlight by assurances that his analysis of a disjointel travel situation was not likely to loosen the sturdy clasp of hands across the sea.

"If you must then, refer to me as 'Nocturnal Nomo of London, Ltd.,'" he replied.

PUSHER MAKES TROUBLE

The pusher, Nemo pointed out, is a motorist who beats the lights, weaves through traffic at a smart pace, crowds others to the curb and in general has no regard for road rights.

"A most offensive chap with quite a bit of side, a cheeky trouble maker," he said. "Decidedly underbred, has a hide like the crust of a Yorkshire pie and impervious to criticism. Should be harshly dealt with."

The poacher was described as a ruthless operator who continually takes unfair advantage on streets and highways, thereby fomenting confusion and often causes accidents. "He simply can't play good cricket," Nemo asserted. "Undoubtedly due to a low strain in his nature. All in all an abominable creature whose tophole act is to get himself smashed up." Nemo mingled contempt with his dislike for the pouter, classifying him as a mean type that sulks and nurses grudges when he doesn't get his own way.

PETROL PILFERER

"A thorough-paced trickster who vents spite on inoffensive motorists," he said. "Such a cad would steal petrol from a car when the owner was looking elsewhere."

When asked an opinion on women drivers the reply was "less said the better. I might be called a lout if I spoke my mind." Nemo volunteered the information that the appraisal was based on personal experience while motoring about for about three months."

Car Trunk Yields Badly Cut Woman

CHICAGO, July 25—(INS)—A severely beaten woman stuffed into the trunk of an automobile, was brought to the Downey Veterans Administration Hospital today by a former mental patient at the hospital.

Th victim, Mrs. Ann Wenberg, 37, mother of two daughters, suffered 25 cuts on the face, head and neck, and was reported in critical condition.

Cook County police were holding Edward A. Thompson, 25, who drove up to the hospital, demanded to be admitted as a patient, and then announced that he had "a dead woman in the car."

Two nurses who rushed out to the automobile found Mrs. Wenberg jammed in the trunk and unconscious.

Capt. Charles Grupp of the Cook County police Homewood Station said Thompson admitted "beating her head against the rocks" in a forest preserve and then driving around with her in the trunk.

The police captain said Thompson could give no reason for the attack explaining he had been drinking and "couldn't remember."

When Mrs. Wenberg regained consciousness, she denied knowing Thompson. However, Grupp said, Thompson claimed that he and Mrs. Wenberg had "met several times in a tavern."

Mrs. Wenberg is divorced from her first husband and separated from her second.

Veterans Administration officials said Thompson had been a mental patient at the Downey Hospital in 1949 and 1951.

J. Edgar Hoover Ends 35 FBI Years Today

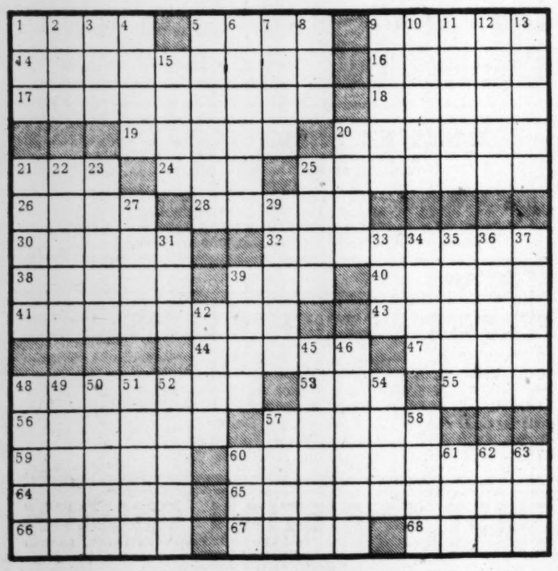

WASHINGTON, July 25—(UP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will round out his 35th year of service in the Justice department tomorrow.

Hoover, 57, entered the Justice Department July 26, 1917, after earning his master of laws degree at George Washington Law School here.

Citizenship Day

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—President Truman today set aside Sept. 17 as citizenship day to commemorate the signing of the Constitution on that day in 1787 and the attainment of citizenship by naturalization.

Cripple Is Carried Up Steps to Gallows

MONTREAL, July 25—(UP)—A crippled watchmaker hobbled the last mile on crutches and was carried up the 13 steps to the gallows where he was hanged today for his part in the death of 23 persons.

Genereux Ruest, 54, paralyzed from the waist down, was executed for making a time bomb that exploded aboard a Canadian Pacific airliner and sent it crashing in flames in 1949. Ruest showed no emotion as the hangman fixed the rope around his neck and tripped the gallows.

Steel Union Waits Word To Return

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH, July 25 (AP)—Striking steelworkers awaited the signal today to return to the cold, dark steel mills closed 54 days ago by a nation-wide economy-crippling strike.

All they needed to get defense production booming again was the word from Philip Murray, head of the CIO and United Steelworkers. Murray met with his 170-man Wage-Policy Committee to get their approval on the strike-ending agreement he reached with industry.

4 OR 5 DAYS' DELAY

U. S. Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry, is ready to call out maintenance and production workers on a moment's notice.

The company said it will be four or five days before banked furnaces—kept alive by standby crews since June 2—can start producing again.

The company estimates one-third of its 143 open hearth furnaces in the Pittsburgh - Youngstown district have been damaged in the long shutdown.

MINERS TO RETURN

The company expects its huge Clairton by-products coke plant will be able to produce gas for the Monongahela Valley mills within 48 hours.

Miners in steel-owned mines are not expected to resume work before Monday.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., fourth largest producer, said it will resume operations "in a normal, orderly and safe way."

4 TO 6 WEEKS

It will be at least four to six weeks before enough steel pours from the 380 steel-idled mills to satisfy current needs.

News of the steel strike settlement was received with mixed emotions by the men who fight the union's battles and produce industry's steel.

One union official, John Katrinsak, chairman of the Grievance Committee at Homestead, Pa., plant of U. S. Steel, said:

"Let's get it straight. The men aren't happy about going back to work. They're happy they've won the benefits they had coming to them. They were willing to stay out two years or ever 10 years if necessary to win this strike."

But one embittered steel worker saw it differently. He said:

"We're just a club they use to beat the companies. It's all politics. After awhile they tell us, 'Okay, boys, you can go back to work.'"

Forest Fire Endangers Ala. Town

PELL CITY, Ala., July 25—(AP)—A wind-fanned forest blaze leaped fire lanes holding it in check and roared within three-quarters of a mile of the little community of Cropwell late today.

St. Clair County authorities sent an emergency appeal to Ft. McClellan for return of chemical warfare troops who helped bring the fire in check in a night-long battle.

"If we don't get 'em in time, Cropwell is gone," Justice of the Peace J. C. Meehan said grimly.

Meehan said a skirmish line of about 100 Pell City volunteers was helping Cropwell residents start back fires in an effort to halt the advancing flames. The rural town about 40 miles east of Birmingham has about 150 residents.

The fire moved southward on a front more than a mile wide. Its tremendous heat set trees, brush, pasture, crops—even green grass—to blazing, Meehan reported. The woods are dangerously dry from a prolonged drouth.

More fire-fighters were moved to the Coal City community north of Pell City, where a four-day fire broke out again. It was believed under control, however.

The Coal City fire for a time leaped dirt roads and fire-breaks "as if they weren't there," District Forester Phil Kipp of Birmingham reported.

Three serious fires were reported in neighborhood Talladega County, where a camp site and house were destroyed. Thousands of acres of woodlands and pastures were left blackened.

State foresters maintained almost a 24-hour-a-day schedule as fire after fire was reported burning in woods all over north Alabama.

NAGUIB PROMISES REFORM

West Hopes Egypt Coup Will Produce Stability

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

Egypt is now going through all the old familiar symptoms which accompany military coups in countries which are poorly developed politically.

In the welter of arrests, troop movements and the like it is extremely difficult to judge the probable results of the overturn in in Army command, seizure of power by Gen. Naguib and sidetracking of the King.

Americans are inclined to be deeply suspiicous of miiltary coups. Too often they lead to dictatorships, or to eventual intensification of the very corruption which, as in the present case, they proclaim themselves determined to end.

FORCE BEST WEAPON

In Egypt, however, it has been increasingly apparent that force is still the only effective political weapon. The question has been whether it would continue to be the force of rioting and economic subjugation of the people. King Farouk, after years of playboy ineffectiveness, finally tried to accomplish something through a few really civic-minded leaders. But he was attempting to work with a group which believed the palace itself was contributing to instability.

Now Naguib is promising to do what the civil reformists could not do—establish a government responsible to Parliament rather than to the King. His new Premier promises to seek a solution of the trouble with Britain. They are promising to wipe out of public life the group which has merely used political power for purposes of exploitation.

ARMY RESENTFUL

Patriotism is present. The motivating force however, sems to be primarily military—pride in the Army, and disgust with the politicians who are accused of letting it down during the war with Israel.

Whether this one issue will push back the real crying need of Egypt, for the beginning of democracy, remains to be seen. A new government, if it is to be of real benefit, must begin to do something about the people of Egypt, poor, ignorant, disease-ridden and hungry. For them, the ruling classes have had practically no consideration.

These, of course, are matters of time. The first hope of the Western world will be that Naguib can produce stability, rehabilitate the Army and put it into position to cooperate with international plans for the defense of the Middle East.

British sources, long experienced in the ways of Egypt, seem to hold some hope that this will result.

Bolivia Forbids Army Carousing After Cafe Killing

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 25—(UP)—President Victor Paz Estenssoro declared today that any member of the armed forces or the government's National Revolutionary Movement appearing drunk in public will be dismissed immediately.

The action followed the fatal shooting of the president's aide de camp, Army Lt. Fernando Haisch, by Maj. Fidel Salazar of the Carabineer (Police) Corps at a night club last night.

The president also ordered all night clubs closed temporarily.

An official announcement said Haisch's death was due exclusively to the condition of "excitement" in which Salazar found himself at the time.

"It was not due to institutional political differences," the statement said.

Salazar was ordered dismissed from the Carabineer Corps and placed at the disposal of civil courts.

Open Drive To Oust Dean of Canterbury

WHITSTABLE, England, July 25 (AP)—John Baker White, Conservative member of Parliament for Canterbury, opened a campaign tonight for "millions of signatures" to a petition to Queen Elizabeth to revoke the appointment of Dr. Hewlett Johnson as Dean of Canterbury.

In a speech here White attacked Dr. Johnson for the "unpardonable" use of Canterbury Cathedral last Sunday to disseminate Communist propaganda.

East Berlin Tries Agents From West

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

BERLIN, July 25—In an ironic and perhaps not accidental coincidence seven alleged agents of West Berlin's investigation committee of free jurists went on trial in East Berlin today almost at the same moment that the committee opened an international congress on the other side of the city designed to expose injustice under Communism.

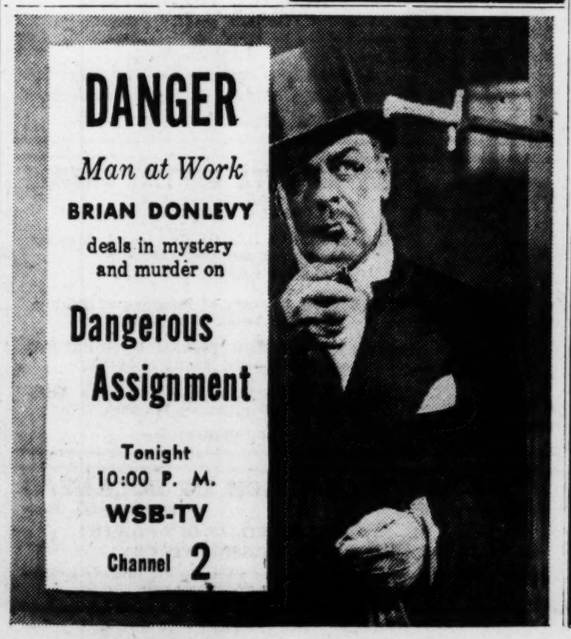

The West Berlin Congress elected J. T. Thorson, president of the Canadian Exchequer Court, as chairman during its seven-day session.

The trial is perhaps the most sensational of those conducted by East Germany's highest court since the drive against "spies and saboteurs" began in April. Several of the accused held government posts.

They were charged with "economic and military esiponage against the (East) German Democratic Republic and the Soviet Union."

Dr. Theo Friedenau, director of the jurists' group, in welcoming over 100 jurists attending the congress said his organization had "secret co-operators" throughout East Germany. The head of his department which collects economic data in East Germany was seized on a street in West Berlin early this month and abducted into the Soviet zone.

Family at Bed Of Stricken Sen. M'Mahon

NORWALK, Conn., July 25 (AP)—While other members of the family were at the bedside in Washington of U. S. Sen. Brien McMahon, his brother, Dr. John McMahon, said here late today he believed the senator still had a "fifty-fifty" chance of recovery.

Earlier in the day the physician had told newsmen that the senator had taken a "turn for the worse."

The senator, operated on in Washington several weeks ago for what was announced as a sacroiliac (lower back) condition, had hoped to head the Connecticut delegation to the Democratic convention where last night his colleague, U. S. Sen. William Benton, put his name in nomination for the presidency.

Moments later however Benton withdrew McMahon's name in accordance with the latter's bedside wishes, while the convention gave him a hearty ovation.

The precise nature of Mcmahon's illness has been in dispute. The senator's family has insisted throughout that he was suffering from a sacroiliac condition. Others close to the senator have said it was of a more serious nature. His office in Washington said today it was understood he was "resting comfortably" and recovering slowly.

Efforts to reach another brother, Dr. William H. McMahon, who went to Washington yesterday to visit the ailing senator, were unavailable in the capital as were those to learn more about his condition from other members of the family who went from Norwalk.

Sports Editor, The Constitution

His Honor, the Leader

His Honor Earl Hazell Wooten, boy wonder, was receiving in locker No. 5 of the Atlanta Crackers' dressing room. He was fresh home from a successful run through the west and sat in his commodious quarters, tastefully decorated with two drooping undershirts, a pair of clay-stained stockings and a couple of unmentionables, regaling his rapt audience with tales of his adventures as the leading hitter in the Southern Association.

Of course, there was some question about how long his three-point advantage over Rance Pless of Nashville would last, but you would have to say that the tow-head—that once came out two-headed, and Junior was beseiged for weeks with circus offers—from South Carolina was living every minute of it.

Bisher

Somebody came in and asked to speak to the luckiest hitter alive.

"Here I am," hollered Junior, "over here in No. 5."

This turn of modesty was not entirely unbecoming the new hero of first base, Atlanta. He is normally quite a well-contained individual. But in this case there was a purpose. If he weren't modest, the Fates that had been looking out for him might be taken off the project.

"Who's the greatest man in the Southern Association?" cheer-leading Charlie Williams hollered.

"Mister Wooten!" said a group of worshippers.

"Who's the greatest hitter?"

"Mister Wooten."

"Who's the greatest first baseman?"

"Al Flair," said an interloper who jumped the gun.

This frivolous mood destroyed, it was possible to get down to the most delightful mystery of the Ponce de Leon year. First place, Wooten is most unaccustomed to leading leagues in hitting. Nearest he ever came was a .316 season he had at Chattanooga, and Joe Engel had bet him $100 he wouldn't break .300. You might say Engel scared him over .300. He is more accustomed to defensive genius, and in Chattanooga, in spite of the recent arrival of Country Brown, they still consider him the greatest center-fielder of all time.

—Discovered and Introduced as a Pitcher

It is customary in such situations to inquire of a man the secrets of his new success.

"Clean living," said Junior, chin thrust forward, eyes clear, lips firm. "Eat a pint of ice cream after each game, early to bed, early to rise—that's me."

"Are you doing anything now you hadn't been doing before?"

"Yes, I am. I'm hitting the ball more often."

This seemed to make sense, and the man passed on to the water fountain. On the way back, he found Wooten, the charmer, alone at last.

"Please," Junior said, Elsa Maxwell style. "No more questions. I'm 28 years old. I bat right, throw left, married, one child, and I'm a prospect."

This instantly carried the man back to a day when Junior was a prospect for the first time. A sports writer up in South Carolina told Zinn Beck about a pitcher down at Pelzer who had a curve. Beck told Engel and Engel told Beck to go get him. Beck went and the pitcher turned out to be Wooten.

Wooten spent the 1944 season at Chattanooga disguised as a pitcher, but when the final records were in the cloak was off.

"They found out you were a helluva hitter, huh?"

"No," said Junior, stricken with a recurrence of modesty. "They found out I wasn't a pitcher."

His record: 5 wins, 15 defeats, 4.89 ERA, 103 bases on balls.

—And Back to the Pitching Mound Again

The procedure reversed itself as Junior polished off his one and only season in the big leagues with Washington in 1948. He had supplied, to steal a clerical term, the Senators as a utility man. He played some outfield, did some pinch-hitting and filled in a week at first base while Mickey Vernon ailed.

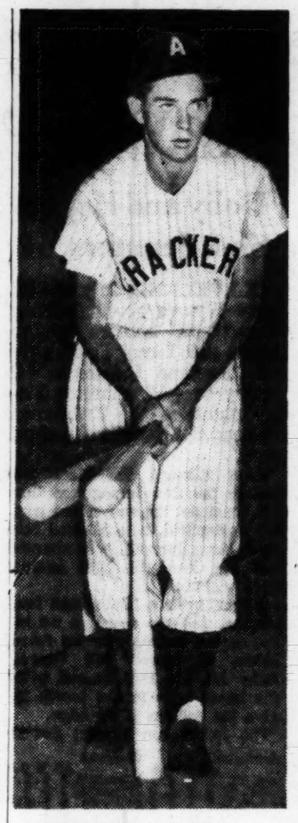

But in the fall, as the Senators staggered home again, they decided that Junior would return the next spring as a pitcher. The pitching situation grew progressively worse, however, and finally one day Junior was called on to perform three innings against Detroit.

"They weren't hitting behind me," he said. "With an 11-run attack I could have had myself a game."

Detroit won, 10-0. Junior again returned to the outfield.

Earl Mann and Joe Engel keep box scores on the crafty deals they pull one on the other. A year ago, Engel was clucking like a mother hen over the $10,000 worth of garbage he'd dumped on the Crackers, namely Wooten and Charlie Workman. It was true. In '51 they didn't stir up a ripple at Ponce de Leon. Poor Workman finally gave up and went back to Missouri and Wooten finally was unloaded up the river on Milwaukee.

When Bob Montag, a likeable German but also a human sieve, turned in his papers as a first baseman, Wooten returned from Milwaukee, and what has happened since is sheer fiction. He's all the remains of the $10,000 steal of '51, but all of a sudden he looks worth all the 10 G's himself.

Coggin Clips Crackers As Barons Romp, 6-3

Ladies Night Crowd Sees Atlanta Strand Eleven; Defeat Snaps Eight-Game Ponce de Leon Streak

By JESSE OUTLAR

Former Cracker Red Mathis made his first appearance at Ponce de Leon Friday night since being named Birmingham manager and his Barons staged a 6-3 homecoming party for the fiery Georgian.

As a result of the setback, the Crackers are only one game in front of the second-place Chattanooga. The Lookouts gained a half length by splitting a double-header with Nashville.

Walt Rogers was the ringleader as the Barons snapped the Crackers' eight-game Poncey winning streak in the series opener.

He slammed a homer in the first to provide Cliff Coggin with a lead, and the Barons never trailed. He later drilled two singles and a double as the Barons strafed three hurlers for 11 safeties.

It was indeed a pleasant ending for Mathis, for the Ladies' Night audience of 6,906 greeted him with a rousing round of boos every time he appeared at the plate. It was mostly the ladies shouting, however, as only 2,991 gents paid.

Actually, Mathis didn't strike a blow. But his outfit had no difficulty in solving the slants of Howie Anderson, who lost his third game; Gerry Lane and Carlton Willey.

The Crackers weren't exactly puzzled by Coggin, who hiked his record to 6-5. They cuffed Cliff for 11 licks, but continued a severe case of "clutchitis." In leaving 11 runners stranded, Dixie Walker's men brought their three-game total to 34.

John Rucker, with three hits, and Chuck Tanner, with two, caused almost half of Coggin's trouble. Junior Wooten, who entered the game as the Southern's top batter, got a single for three and two walks. He's still hitting .358.

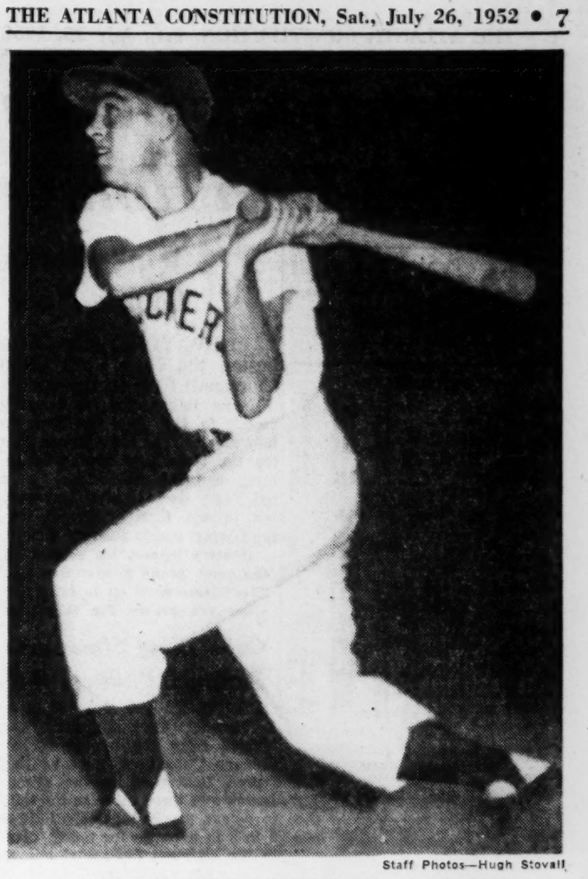

With Coggin allowing runners to reach first in all but one inning, the Barons never held a comfortable edge until they bopped Willey for two in the ninth.

Rogers' solo circuit socks into the right-field signs, his sixth of the year, made it 1-0 in the first. But the Crackers snarled the count in the second. Jack Parks' infield hit, a walk to Wooten and Chuck Tanner's single sent the run over.

Rogers didn't let it stay locked long. He singled with one down in the third and scored one of his four runs as Tommy O'Brien rammed a two-bagger against the left-field fence.

Birmingham cashed its third run in the fifth, after the Crackers thought they had retired the side. Coggin, robbed of at least a double by Dick Sinovic in the third, singled with one away. Then, Dick Young bounced to Wooten, who stepped on the bag and threw to second for what umpire Andy Mitchell ruled a double play. Nei-

HELSINKI, July 25—The bombshell of the games of the Fifteenth Olympiad was exploded Friday when Horace Ashenfelter won the greatest 3,000-meter steeplechase race of all time, for the United States' twelfth gold medal in track and field, and the first victory ever in this event.

Associated Press Wirephoto

STEADY THERE—OLYMPIC OFFICIAL DEAD AHEAD
Horace Ashenfelter Wins 3,000 Meters, Almost Hits Official

In the almost unbelievable time of 8:45.4, 18.4 seconds under the Olympic record that has stood on the books since 1936, the 29-year-old Penn State graduate from Glen Ridge, N. J. ran away from the world's best to win by thirty yards as the first of eight to finish and excel the old mark. Vladimir Kazantsev of Russia, the favorite, who shadowed the special agent of the FBI practically every inch of the way until he stumbled in taking the last water jump, barely was able to stagger home just ahead of John Disley of Great Britain, completely broken by the powerful finishing sprint of the American.

To appreciate the magnitude of Ashenfelter's victory, neither he nor any other American had broken nine minutes before this week. Even the 8:51 clocking he had in his heat failed to prepare anyone for his triumph. A place among the first six was as much as was hoped for, and it was regarded as almost unthinkable that he should defeat Kazantsev, credited with an 8:48 clocking last year.

A crowd of 65,000 let go a roar when his remarkable time was posted on the electric scoreboard. Others also won tumultuous acclaim during a day that saw continuation of record-shattering performances.

George Rhoden and Herbert McKenley of Jamaica both broke the Olympic mark when they finished one-two in 45.9 seconds in the finals of the 400 meters. Ollie Matson, San Francisco football star, took the bronze medal and Mal Whitfield of Columbus, Ohio, finished last.

McKenley, second to Lindy Remigino of Hartford, Conn., in a photo finish of the 100 meters, again had to be satisfied with a silver medal.

In the women's 200-meter semi-finals a new world record was established by Marjorie Jackson of New South Wales. The 20-year-old Australian typist excelled the old figure by two-tenths of a second in winning her heat in 23.4 seconds. During the day

Souchock Homer in 9th Sinks Yankees for Tigers

DETROIT, July 25—(AP)—Steve Souchock boomed a game-winning homer on Bob Kuzava's first pitch in the last of the ninth inning Friday night as the Detroit Tigers handed the leading New York Yankees their third straight defeat, 2-1.

Johnny Groth singled home Neil Berry from third with the Tigers' tying run in the eighth inning.

Art Houtteman, Tiger 24-year-old hard-luck hurler, gave up seven hits for his fifth victory against 13 defeats.

It was Houtteman's air-tight pitching in the clutch that did it. The Yankees loaded the bases in the fifth but he struck out Joe Collins to retire the side. And twice he struck out Billy Martin, in the second and sixth, with two runners on base and two out.

Mickey Mantle had put the Yankees ahead in the fourth with his 14th home run into the upper right field stands. It was Souchock's sixth home run.

Blum Recovers to Edge McCrary, Plays Gallagher in Finals Today

By BERT PRATHER

Constitution Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, July 25—Arnold Blum's State Amateur golf crown tottered unsteadily on his head for a brief few seconds on the 19th hole late Friday, but the resourceful Macon stylist recovered quickly to snuff out the gallant bid of 18-year-old Larry McCrary on the 20th hole with a drama-filled 15-yard birdie putt.

The sudden ending on the second extra hole put Blum in the finals for the third straight year and also placed him in a position to win his third successive State crown and fourth of his career.

His opponent in Saturday's 36-hole title grind over the 6,604-yard Augusta Country Club course will be unheralded and almost overlooked Alfred Gallagher, who is stationed with the Airforce at nearby Camp Gordon. Alfred reached the championship round with a 2-and-1 triumph over young Norrie Wright of Dublin.

Blum's battle with the Citadel freshman, a grandson of former USGA President Fielding Wallace and a protege of pro Ed Dudley of Augusta National Golf Club, kept the partisan gallery in suspense all the way.

After Blum won the first hole, McCrary steadied to take No. 2 with a birdie three, and four with a par three to assume a surprising lead. Blum's eagle three on eight squared it, but the Augusta favorite birdied nine with a three to turn one-up.

Blum's four-foot putt at 10 for a bird squared the tussle. Then it looked like curtains for the youngster when he had an unplayable lie on 11 for a six and also bogeyed the short 12th to go two down. But he wasn't through yet.

Larry grabbed 13 when Blum's putt rummed the cup for a bogey five. Blum made a beauty on the short 14th to get his deuce and it was Blum 2-up again. The Macon ace pushed his tee shot in the rough on 15 and wound up with a bogey six to lose the hole.

They battled all even on the next two holes and teed off on 18 with Blum enjoying a 1-up advantage. After striking off the tee, Blum noticed lightning in the sky and called a halt to the match, which he is permitted to do under the rules of golf.

While waiting for the electrical disturbance to subside, a full-fledged rainstorm soaked the course and play was not resumed until almost dark. Blum whacked his iron shot up to within 12 feet of 18 pin and McCrary was just three feet further away. Everyone figured a half was a certainty and the match would be over.

But to the great surprise of everyone, the defending champ three-putted to lose the hole to McCrary's four. Blum's last miss was hardly a three-footer. That made it all square.

On 19, it was McCrary's turn to miss the short one. With the match in the bag, Larry missed a two-footer to match Blum's bogey five. That sent them on to the par four 20th where Blum put an end to this unusual match with his long birdie putt.

Blum turned his morning match against Hudson Boyd of Augusta

HEY, SENATOR: AMERICA NEEDS A GOOD 10-YEAR-OLD CADDY

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP)—What America needs is a good 10-year-old caddy.

That's the slogan of Fred Corcoran, promotional director for the Professional Golfers Association tournament bureau. Corcoran is campaigning to end the great American caddy famine.

Fred Corcoran

"Just when everything was verging on the perfect in golf, we are surprisingly confronted with nearly empty caddy yards at too many clubs," said the husky Bostonian.

He urged everyone who has had to forego the pleasure of a round, or has unwillingly had to pack his own bag of clubs, to write to his state senator or state representative to have the caddy minimum age changed in his state.

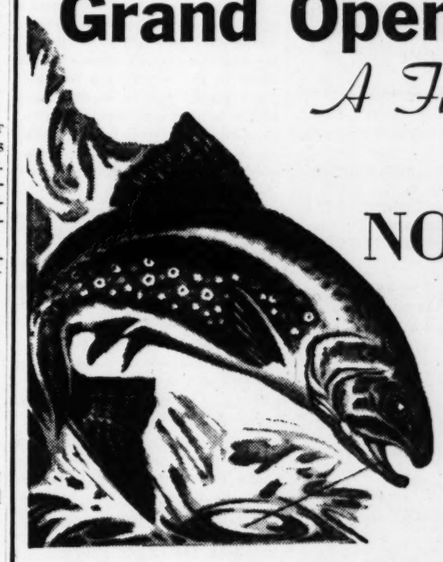

"Bring the minimum down to nine or 10 years," he said, "from the the too-high ages that exist under current labor laws in most states."

Hearn Beats Cincinnati, 3-1, With 2-Run Homer, 4-Hitter

Wins Eleventh of Season; Giants Now Trail by Six

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP)—Jim Hearn pitched and batted the New York Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the opener of a four-game series Friday.

Hearn, in boosting his season's record to 11-3, held the Reds to four singles. The big Atlantan also led the New York attack, slamming a home run with catcher Sal Yvars on base after two were out in the fifth inning. It was the Giants' fourth straight victory.

Hearn's homer, his second of the year, broke a scoreless tie. The Giants went on to tally another run before the side was retired when Davey Williams singled and came in on Alvin Dark's double.

Victim of the three-run rally was southpaw Ken Raffensberger, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the top of the sixth inning and was tagged with his eighth defeat.

The Reds got their lone run in the eighth on singles by Eddie Pellagrini and Roy McMillan and pinch-hitter Hank Edwards' long fly to center.

The victory left the Giants six games behind the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers who engaged the third place St. Louis Cardinals in a night game.

Blum Enters State Finals

Country Club into a rout. This Maconite won the first four holes and Boyd never had a chance thereafter. To prove how tough it was to stay on the course with the champ, Boyd had to sink for an eagle on No. 8 to beat Blum's birdie four. Arnold was five under par when he closed out the match on No. 12, 7 and 6.

McCrary, young Augusta Country Club star, pulled somewhat of a surprise when he edged Trion's Tommy Bean 2 and 1. Bean, who had gone to the quarter-finals of the recent National Publinx championship at Miami, had been picked as Blum's semifinals opponent by many of the sideline experts.

Gallagher, son of Armed Forces Club pro Mickey Gallagher of here, came from behind on the back nine to defeat Newnan's Wilkins Kirby Jr., 2 and 1. Kirby was 2-up through 10th but Gallagher battled back to pull even at 13th and win out on the 17th.

Norcross Rolls On To Area 2 Crown

Drops DeKalb Barons, 4-1, For Fifth Straight Victory

By ERNIE HYNDS
Constitution Sports Writer

CHAMBLEE, July 24—Norcross clipped DeKalb Barons, 4-1, Friday night to annex the Area II Championship and qualify for the American Legion Junior baseball state playoffs starting at Marietta, August 6.

Lanky Alex Chesnut scattered nine hits in going the route for his fifth victory of the season against no defeats. Ray Garmon had turned that same trick Thursday night beating the Barons, 8-2, in the first of the three-game playoffs.

Overall the Norcross nine now has 11 victories to its credit against an early season loss to Monroe, long-since avenged with interest.

Chesnut also led his team's offensive attack with a single, double, rbi and two runs scored. He was the only man on his own team to get more than one hit. Earl Fuller had a double and single in five and Drew Suttles, starting his first tournament game, had two singles in three official tries for DeKalb.

Norcross scored first when Ivey Carroll singled, stole second and advanced home on two passed balls. They used a walk, an error and singles by Chesnut and Billy Weathers to make it 3-0 in the sixth and tallied their final run in the eighth on Chesnut's double, another passed ball and a balk.

DeKalb scored its lone run in the top half of the eighth on a walk, error and singles by Jim Payne and Suttles.

Big Chesnut fanned 10, once to retired the side with the bases loaded in the first and again to close the door with men on second and third in the third.

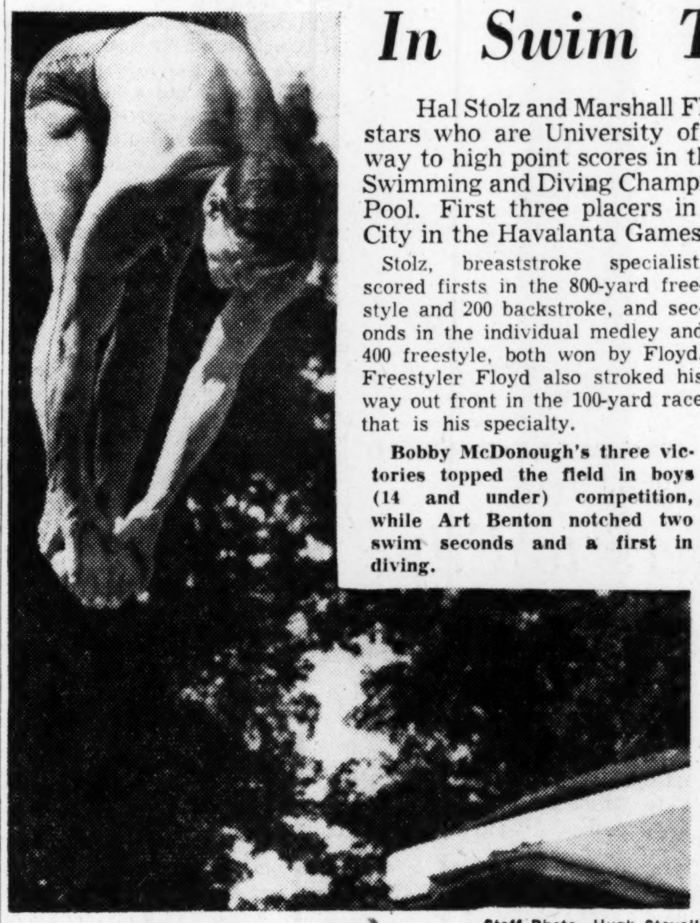

Larry Owen allowed but seven hits and struck out six for the losers.

Cleveland Moves Up to Third On Wynn's Six-Hit Pitching

Doby and Hegan Sink Senators, 4-2

CLEVELAND, July 25—(AP). Early Wynn's six-hit hurling backed with homers by Jim Hegan and Larry Doby gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-2 victory over Washington Friday night as the Tribesmen replaced the Senators in third place.

Wynn allowed the Nats two runs in the first inning and then shut them out the rest of the way. Bob Porterfield, who allowed only seven blows himself, was charged with the loss, his 10th against seven victories.

Hegan, with a homer and two singles, tied the score at 2-2 in the second inning with his four-baser. It scored Bill Glynn. Doby hit his 18th homer with the bases bare in the fourth to give the Indians a 3-2 edge.

The fourth run against Porterfield was unearned. Bob Avila beat out an infield single in the eighth, went to second on a wild throw to first and scored on a single by Al Rosen.

Young's Triple Sinks Brodowski

ST. LOUIS, July 25—(AP)—Bobby Young's two-run triple in a three-run seventh inning gave the St. Louis Browns a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox here Friday night as veteran Tommy Byrne bested rookie Dick Brodowski in a hurling duel.

Brodowski allowed only three hits, including Young's triple and Jim Rivera's single in the fatal seventh in which he also walked two men. Hoot Evers tagged Byrne for a solo homer in the sixth to give the Red Sox a momentary 1-0 edge.

Going into the home seventh, Brodowski had not walked a batter, and one free ticket in that inning was an intentional pass to Clint Courtney.

Suder, Pierce Heroes As Sox, A's Split

CHICAGO, July 25 (AP)—Pete Suder's bases-sweeping triple climaxed a five-run third inning that stood up in a 5-4 victory for the Philadelphia Athletics in a second game of a twi-night double-header with the rally-minded Chicago Wite Sox. The Sox won the opener 5-0, registering their second straight shutout as Billy Pierce turned in a seven-hit pitching job.

Radcliffe Takes Another Shift In Yank Chain

TYLER, July 25—(AP)—Righthander Hugh Radcliffe, one-time $40,000 bonus ball player with the Philadelphia Phillies and now New York Yankee property, was returned to the Yankees Friday by Tyler of the Class B Big State League.

Hugh Frank Radcliffe

Tyler owner J. C. Stroud said Radcliffe was being sent back to the Yankees to make room for another pitcher.

The Yankees immediately assigned Radcliffe to their Binghampton, N. Y. club in the Class A Eastern League.

Radcliffe, who started the season with Beaumont of the Texas League, had a 3-2 record with Tyler.

KENTUCKY SPORTS FUTURE PLACED BEFORE SEC GROUP

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 25—(AP)—Kentucky's athletic future was placed in the hands of the Southeastern Conference executive committee Friday night.

The six-member group was called together to discuss a report of commissioner Bernie Moore on his investigation of the school's sports program, which was branded "highly systematized and commercialized" by a New York judge.

There were indications the University will be made to pay a penalty for letting its program get out of hand and produce the recent scandal involving six of its basketball players.

This stemmed from the consideration that school officials were called to appear before the executive committee and answer charges in Moore's report:

Dr. H. L. Donovan, University president, and Dean A. D. Kirwan, faculty advisor on athletics, were en route to Birmingham by train Friday night to appear before the committee Saturday.

Stolz, Floyd Lead Way In Swim Tests Here

Hal Stolz and Marshall Floyd, Georgia Military Academy stars who are University of Georgia-bound, churned their way to high point scores in the first annual Greater Atlanta Swimming and Diving Championships Friday at North Fulton Pool. First three placers in each event will represent the City in the Havalanta Games here Aug. 25-27.

Stolz, breaststroke specialist, scored firsts in the 800-yard freestyle and 200 backstroke, and seconds in the individual medley and 400 freestyle, both won by Floyd. Freestyler Floyd also stroked his way out front in the 100-yard race that is his specialty.

Bobby McDonough's three victories topped the field in boys (14 and under) competition, while Art Benton notched two swim seconds and a first in diving.

In women's events, Mary Jo Link freestyled her way in for 100-yard honors, took second in breaststroke 200, and won the individual medley. Gail Benton, fourth placer in Olympic trials, was far ahead in diving.

Men's diving gold medal went to Jim Jacques.

Versatile 'Rock' Anchors Moultrie All-Timers

By BILL McGROTHA

Mired pretty solidly in a second-division rut the last five years, Moultrie baseball fans still bask in the glory days of 1947 and a team which, they say, was the brightest the Georgia-Florida League ever had.

It must have been great, for the 1947 Packers won the flag by five and a half games, swept the playoffs within the loop, then beat Gainesville, the Florida State champ, in a thrilling seven-game inter-league set, all the while attracting a league-record 100,000-plus fans for the season.

Four members of that sterling outfit make the all-time Moultrie team selected for The Constitution by Bill Avera, former Moultrie sportswriter who now is editor of the Moultrie Observer.

Jim Poole (1946-47-51) is the manager. The old Southern Association home run king reined the club in second his first year, first his second, came back last year and absorbed a seventh-place setback.

Jim Poole   Ken Rhyne

Killin' Ken Rhyne (1946-47-48-51) patrols first base. Handicapped around the bag and on the basepaths with war-injured feet, Rhyne slugged .304, .304, .291, .249 his four years, poled 22, 24 and 27 homers the first three.

Outfielder Bill LaFrance (1946-47) carried .318 and .304 bats his two campaigns, poled 23 homers over the stretch.

Milton Wrenn (1947-49-51-52) draws the catching post. Wrenn, who rejoined the current team a couple of weeks ago, batted .290 the big '47 season.

With Rhyne in the infield are Carl Bethman (.308—1939) on third base, Harry Mernie (.287—1939) at second and Pete Castiglione (.280—1941) manning shortstop. Mernie later played for the Phillies, Castiglione is still in the majors, with Pittsburgh.

Johnny Lazor (.314—1937) and Rocco Ippolito (.370—1948) round out the outfield with LaFrance. Lazor was with the Boston Red Sox for a number of years, narrowly missed the American League batting crown in 1945 when George Stirnweiss of the Yankees was awarded it on .309 because Lazor had not been in quite enough games to qualify with his .310.

Ippolito is the boy of boys with Moultrie. Now in the service after a brief turn with the St. Louis Browns, the Rock parked 21 homers, racked a league-record 291 total bases his one year at Moultrie. Remarkable part about it was that Ippolito started the year as a pitcher. Before the year was out, he played virtually every position on the squad—even caught one game—though the outfield was his primary role.

Kip Saurbrun (12-5—1942), Lloyd Gross (22-10—1939) and Lee (Bobo) Holloman (20-5—1946) are the pitchers. Saurbrun, one of the real mound standouts in loop annals, also made Tallahassee's all-time squad. Holloman, now in the International League, seemed on his way to a superlative year before an appendectomy sidelined him recently.

Frank Pelat (.291—1939) gets the utility nomination. A fine all-round infielder, Pelat knocked down 117 bases on balls.

Clark Cracks Course Record At Sioux City

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, July 25—(AP). Jimmy Clark, a stocky former Marine, blasted out a course record 10-under-par 62 Friday in the second round of the Sioux City Open golf tournament.

The 31-year-old Huntington Beach, Calif., shooter, who opened with a 68, soared into the pace-setting role with a 130 total as he left a seven-stroke gap between his nearest challengers with less than half the field reported.

Clark's record performance, assembled with nines of 30-32, snapped the 6,506-yard Elmwood Course record by a single stroke.

Al Besselink, the first round leader with a 65, was among the late starters and had a one-under-par 35 for his first nine.

BULLDOGS SEEN ENTRENCHED FOR BETTER DEFENSE STAND

By EDWIN POPE
Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS, July 25—Another slit of light Friday filtered through the shroud of apprehension surrounding Georgia's 1952 football chances with a cautious prediction of improved defensive play.

"Commitments this early are foolish," said Bulldog defensive coach Quinton Lumpkin, "but we think we have reason to hope that the weakest part of our '51 team—the defense—will be stronger."

Lumpkin lectured at the fifth annual University of Georgia Coaching Clinic for high school coaches.

"Our G-Day game in the spring showed aggressive and alert defensive play," he said. "The two offensive teams fumbled eight times. The defensive team recovered all eight. If you're offense-happy, that's bad, but think what a lift it means for the defense."

Georgia last year was one of the Southeastern Conference's best offensive machines statistically. It was one of the worst defensively.

Six defensive regulars return to Red and Black moleskinner on Sept. 1. They are Capt. Bob West and Dexter Poss at ends, Alt. Capt. Frank Salerno at guard, linebackers Hurley Jones and Randy Ragsdale and sideback Jack Hill. Meanwhile, 100-odd prep coaches from throughout the South listened intently to more discussions of sports technique and strategy from university-staff lecturers. Heat dampened shirts but not enthusiasm.

Clinical Report: Is this clinic worth the trouble? Results echo a solid affirmative. Example: Three prep coaches who attended '51 sessions beside Tanyard Creek now are in college ranks. They are Bo Hagan, Georgia Tech; Joe Connally, Auburn, and Speck Landrum, Georgia. . . . Max Dowis, the kid who grew up with this clinic, missed his first one this year. Dowis, former Lithonia and South Georgia College quarterback, is a student at the University now. . . . Football fever does not end with lecture adjournments. Athens townsfolk weighed sanity when they saw SGC's Johnny Griffith and coach-looking-for-a-team-to-coach Hokey Jackson in a perfectly serious blocking demonstration on a downtown sidewalk.

Oldest mentor here: O'Keefe's Hank Langston, who thought last year he was through with the game. . . . Baxley's Steve Maglio, no overpowering optimist at any time, is even more melancholy at the loss of two female aces from his South team for the GHSA All-Star basketball game in Atlanta soon. . . . Brunswick's Marianna Tyre withdrew because of marriage and Warner Robins' sensational Barbara Ann Wilkes declined an invitation.

Youth-Ain't-It-Wonderful-Dept.: Two of the coaches here, while in undergraduate days, set out for Daytona Beach, Fla., with a Model-T and $4.50 cash. Their gas tank and wallet ran dry 71 miles short of the destination. They were pushed the rest of the way by first one car, then another, drivers of whom thought they were giving two college kids just a shove to the nearest filling station.

Pelham High's Godfrey Steiner expects a fair football team this fall, with senior quarterback Jimmy Piland leading the way. But "the big year" is supposed to be '54, when his younger players have matured. . . . Steiner relates that his brother, Rebel, former Alabama star, will not return to his defensive halfback spot with the Green Bay Packers this fall. He'll be with a different type packer—sausage-packer—in Birmingham.

Dickie Butler of Columbus and Oliver Hunnicutt of LaGrange were chagrinned at missing the Wednesday night Smorgasbord because they did not arrive until Thursday. Butler charged sabotage, threatened to throw a dinner party himself. . . . A coach looks at politics: "The Democratic convention on television is better than most of our football games." . . . Coach Larry Costa, one of Georgia's fondest boosters, drove all the way from Dothan, Ala., to see coach J. B. Whitworth when he heard the ex-Georgian was in town from Oklahoma A & M.

"You've got to know at least three different offenses in this game as well as the one you're coaching," said lecturer Sterling DuPree. "If you don't, your defense hasn't a chance." . . . Douglasville's Red Camp checked in from Peabody College. . . . Valdosta's Wright Bazemore, a hoped-for guest here, is still schooling at Peabody. . . . Three Hanks get together: Langston of O'Keefe, Condon of Alpharetta, and Powers of Griffin.

The clinic winds up Saturday at noon and many of the coaches will stay over for guest-golfing at Athens Country Club. . . . Clinicites were brought up to date on whereabouts of former Georgia trainer and Gainesville assistant coach Neal Alford. He's doing well in the construction business in the state.

Barons Stop Crackers in Home Opener

ther Mitchell nor the Crackers had seen plate umpire Walt Welaj rule the ball foul.

Granted a reprieve, Young walloped a triple, scoring Coggin. Bolling singled Rogers in with an eighth-inning marker, after Lane had spelled Anderson.

In the ninth, Rogers drilled a scoring double, then crossed for the fourth time on Allen Van Alstyne's single.

Tanner's double linked with Harry Hanebrink's single produced a Cracker run in the bottom of the eighth. Then, in the ninth, Rucker led with a booming triple to the bank in center, and scored on Tanner's fly. A fine shoestring catch by John Minarcin on Sinovic's liner to right closed the Cracker shop.

Jack Brittin (8-4) will hurl for Atlanta Saturday night. Mathis was undecided about the Baron starter.

CRACKER BARREL: President Earl Mann will present a coon hunt as an added attraction for Poncey customers Saturday night. The hounds will start barking at 8 p. m. . . . If Mann really wants to pack 'em in, he should rematch Whit Wyatt and Chuck Eisenmann. Wyatt's old sparring partner, obtained from Syracuse, joined the Barons here Friday. . . . Eddie Glennon, the Birmingham generalissimo, is here with the Barons. When a fan remarked that ump Walt Welaj should return to the bushes, Glennon cracked: "Where do you think he is now? Look out at those bushes in left field." . . . Art Fowler rates the current Crackers as the best team he's seen in four seasons in the Southern. Incidentally, Fowler, out since July 17, will return to the hill against the Barons in one of Sunday's games.

Packers Plan August Camp

Special to The Constitution

MOULTRIE, July 24—Coach William (Knuck) McCrary's Moultrie Packers will trek to Georgia's mountains late in August for its third annual trip to Red Barron's camp at Mountain City, near Clayton.

About 35 boys will make the trip, assistant coach Jim Nolan said, and uniforms have already been distributed.

Reds Transfer Dublin's Pfiefer To Columbia

Special to The Constitution

DUBLIN, July 25—Cincinnati's parent Reds have withdrawn Cy Pfiefer as manager of Dublin's Georgia State League Green Sox and he will go to the Reds' Columbia farm in the Sally League.

Pfiefer's successor was not immediately named.

The action came amid rumors of friction between the Reds, who have a working agreement, and the Dublin management. Dublin club president Herschel Lovett, who is now attending the Democratic convention in Chicago as a Georgia delegate, announced recently that he was cutting price of admission to Green Sox games because of "the low calibré of play."

Larsen, Seixas Thump Japs In Cup Play

CINCINNATI, July 25—(AP)—Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia Friday shot the United States into a 2-0 lead over Japan in the opening singles matches of the Davis Cup tennis elimination.

It took more than two hours for Larsen to dispose of Jiro Kumamaru, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4.

Seixas made short work of Atushi Migayi in the second singles match, 6-3, 6-1, 6-0.

Migayi won the first three games from Seixas, but was completely outclassed by the husky Philadelphian the rest of the way.

The doubles match will be played Saturday the final singles matches Sunday.

In the first match, the two-hour play was largely a battle of the base lines as Kumamaru elected to stay back and hammer long volleys at Larsen.

Ashenfelter Stuns Red Ace In Olympics' Steeplechase

the Olympic record was broken three other times and equalled twice. Miss Jackson is the nearest thing to a Fanny Blankers-Koen in these games.

After more than 10 hours of competition in the decathlon, the U. S. seemed on the way to winning its thirteenth gold medal. Defending champion Bob Mathias of Tulare, Calif., and his two teammates were leading the field though Ignace Heinrich of France was not far behind.

After the first five events, Mathias had collected 4,367 points, 27 under his half-way total in setting a world record in Olympic tryouts. Milton Campbell, 18-year-old wonder from Plainfield, N. J., had 4,111 and was doing better than Mathias did in his sensational victory at London as a 17-year-old. Floyd Simmons, 29-year-old veteran from Charlotte, N. C., had 3,924, Heinrich 3,855.

Mathias ran the 100 meters in 10.9, broad-jumped 22 feet 10⅞ inches, put the shot 50 feet 5¾ inches. He high-jumped 6 feet 2¾ inches, ran the 400 meters in 50.2.

Competition began Friday in basketball and the U. S. won the opening game with Hungary, 66-48.

OLYMPIC NOTES—United States' men lead their Russian rivals, 249 points to 209½, thus far in the games, but the Soviet's Amazon women tip the scales hard in the other direction, having a 348½ to 250-point bulge on the Americans. . . . Huelet Benner, 24-year-old U. S. master sergeant, won the free pistol championship as the Olympic shooting competitions opened. Angel Leon of Spain was second, being outscored by Benner, 553 to 550. . . . Coaches Warren Womble and Phog Allen of the U. S. were impressed with the Russian basketball team in its opening conquest of Bulgaria, 74-46. Of 16 teams that started, only eight will be left in the running by Sunday night. Others to win openers besides the U. S. and Russia were Mexico, Uruguay, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and France. Neither Bob Kurland nor Clyde Lovellette, America's top aces, were impressive in the 66-48 triumph over outclassed Hungary. The former had four points, the latter seven. France has a six-nine center in Jean Paul Beugnot, Russia a six-sixer in Anotoliu Kunnov and a six-four lad in Otto Korkila.

Norway's Hans Aesnaes and Sweden's Hans Liljedahl are tied in the clay pigeon trap shooting competition with 66 points each. . . . The U. S. water polo team was a first-round loser to Sweden, 5-1. Hungary, Germany Egypt, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Italy, Spain, Great Britain, Holland were other winners. Losers have another chance, however. . . . Finland's foreign office announces that Communist China's Olympic team will arrive in Helsinki by plane, July 28. There was no indication as to which sports the Chinese would compete in.

Bisplinghoff, Californians Reach Junior Golf Semis

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 25—(AP)—Three Californians, including defending champion Tommy Jacobs, moved into the semifinal round of the National Junior Golf championships Friday, along with Don Bisplinghoff, a Floridan, who has been playing better than any of them.

The 17-year-old champion from Montebello paced the Pacific Coast delegation which includes Eddie Meyerson of Los Angeles, and Pete Guyer of Monterey. They and Bisplinghoff, the Orlando, Fla., blond bomber, scored in fourth and quarter-final round tests Friday.

Now, Jacobs meets Bisplinghoff Saturday morning in what shapes up as a real intersectional thriller, and Meyerson faces Guyer in an all-California battle. The survivors tee off for the crown Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 p. m. (EST).

Bisplinghoff breezed in with a 9-and-8 triumph this morning over Eric Jonas of Charlotte, N. C., but met a stubborn opponent in Terry Temple of Peru, Ind., who carried the 6-2, 195-pound Floridan to the 17th. Don won, 2 and 1.

Flock Returns To Racing Here Sunday

Old favorites and new speed addicts return to the one-mile Lakewood oval Sunday for 100 miles of competition between modified and sportsmen stock racing cars. Two 25-mile races precede a 50-mile feature which will begin at 3 o'clock. Drawings for starting positions are set at 1 p. m.

Bob Flock

Veterans who will be behind the wheels of modifieds in the races, sanctioned by NASCAR, include Roscoe Thompson, Gober Sosebee, Ed Samples, Billy Carden, Jack Smith, June Cleveland, Buck Baker, Len Tippitt and Speedy and Jimmy Thompson.

A skilled veteran who will begin his comeback in a "modified" is Bob Flock, out of racing for eight months due to a back fracture suffered in Florida.

Capable sportsmen entries who are comparatively new to Lakewood fans include Charlie Bagwell, Earl Coleman, Bobby Johns, Charley Mencey, Sunny Black, Burton Wilkes, Neil Roberts, Pug Blalock, Jim Turpin and Gerry Smithwick.

Curtis Turner, Roanoke, Va., winner of the nation's first modified-sportsmen race at Darlington, S. C., July 4, also is in the field, as is Jack Etheridge, another local veteran.

Winning drivers will be awarded points in the official NASCAR modified and sportsmen division standings.

BULGE HURLER

Hoyt Wilhelm, knuckleball pitcher for the New York Giants, was wounded in the Battle of the Bulge during World War II.

Cards Sign Billy Ivey

Billy Ivey, fancy-hitting outfielder for the North in June's Lighthouse All-Star game here, has signed a pro baseball contract with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Flowery Branch boy hit above .600 and doubled as a pitcher for the Buford High nine the past season.

Signed by scout Mercer Harris, Ivey will be assigned to Albany of the class D Georgia-Florida League next year. He does not plan to play this season.

BROOKS VICTOR

Peach Bowl Racer Dies In Mishap

Harry Brooks raced to victory Friday night at the Peach Bowl Speedway in the 25-lap feature that was marred by the death of 25-year-old Russell Floyd Powell, young Atlanta amateur racing driver. Witnesses reported Powells car struck the grandstand on the second lap and spun to a stop. Powell was climbing out of the vehicle when it was struck by another car, throwing him onto the track and into the path of several onrushing cars.

Powell reportedly began racing stock cars only a week ago.

Don Ivy was a double winner, capturing the trophy dash and the first heat. Jack Jackson trailed Ivy in the initial race.

Flea Milton was the third-race victor and followed Brooks in the feature. Second-race winner was Andy Buffington and Don Veshore took the special motorcycle race.

Harvie Ward, Manley Win In Colonial

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 25—(AP)—Competition in the Colonial amateur invitational golf tournament Friday boiled down to the choice swingers—all favorites advanced.

Harvie Ward, British amateur champ; Gay Brewer Jr., Southern titlist; Mason Rudolph, record-breaking medalist; defending champion Hallman Robbins; Savannah's Hobart Manley, and LSU's Eddie Merrins all won.

Ward slaughtered Matt Galloway, 7 and 6, but Robbins had a toughest time as 15-year-old Roy Moore Jr., Memphis, held him to a 2 and 1 win.

Sonny .Swift, .Columbus, .Ga., turned back Eaton Elder of Memphis, 2 and 1.

Manley defeated Harold Cashon Jr., Jackson, Tenn., 3 and 1, and Merrins, Meridian, Miss., tripped Nelson Smith, Memphis, by the same score.

Marciano by Kayo, Says Joey Maxim

Rocky Rates 12-5 Choice In Bout With Matthews

By JACK HAND

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., July 25—(AP)—Light Heavyweight Champ Joey Maxim Friday picked Rocky Marciano to knock out Harry Matthews Monday night at Yankee Stadium after watching the Brockton, Mass., slugger go four rounds in the gym.

"He may look crude," said Maxim. "But he'll wear him down. He gets his punching power from leverage, like Jack Dempsey."

Rocky Marciano

Irish Bob Murphy, who helped make Matthews what he is, isn't so sure. Matthews' impressive win over Murphy last year vaulted the pride of Seattle into the limelight.

"If Matthews can still move like he could against me and doesn't tire in four or five rounds," said Murphy, Marciano is going to be in for a rough night."

Marciano, a 12 to 5 favorite, failed to impress some of the visitors in his two rounds with 206-pound Dave Davey of Tacoma, Wash. In two rounds with Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles, a light heavyweight, he looked more like the mauler who stopped Joe Louis.

"Sure, I'm going out for a knockout," said Marciano. "As soon as I get an opportunity, I always do. I'll be shooting for it from the first bell."

Marciano weighed 191, wearing shoes and trunks, before the workout.

"He's in better condition now than he was for the Louis fight," said trainer Charley Goldman. "He's boxed 78 rounds so far and will wind up with four more tomorrow."

Moran Hitting Poorly, But Fielding Well

Special to The Constitution

GREEN BAY, Wisc., July 25—The fielding of Billy Moran, East Point, Ga., shortstop whom the Cleveland Indians paid a $40,000 bonus recently, has been a "good field, no hit" lad in his early professional debut days with Green Bay of the Wisconsin State League.

Moran's fielding has been exceptional, and against Wasau this week he made a bare-handed stab of a hump-backed liner after running into centerfield with his back to the infield. The sensational play brought a terrific roar from the home crowd.

Hitting is another matter. He has nine hits in 50 trips for a .18[illegible] mark. Two of his hits were doubles, and he's batted in nine runs. Manager Phil Seghi says the youngster is hitting in "hard luck," however, and has been hitting line drives "right at folks."

Iran Nearer Oil Accord --Mossadegh

Premier, British Official Confer

By ALBION ROSS
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TEHRAN, Iran, July 25—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh told the nation in a radio broadcast tonight that the tangled oil problem had taken a turn for the better and that therefore he was resolved to initiate and carry out reform measures and to take fundamental speedy steps he believed the country direly needed now.

Mossadegh summoned George Middleton, British Charge d'Affaires, to his office. They conferred for more than two hours. The purpose of the visit has not been disclosed but Middleton said a guess that it concerned oil would not be far wrong.

Mossadegh's internal authority is now unchallenged and the decision of the International Court of Justice that the Anglo-Iranian oil complaint was outside its jurisdiction improved considerably his international situation in approaching the oil issue. Speculation naturally is to the effect that starting from this position he may seek again some type of solution of the oil problem.

HEARS COMMUNISTS

Mossadegh received the leaders of the Tudeh Communist organization, which now calls itself the Association to Combat Imperialism. The subject obviously was the relation that exists between the government and the National Front on one hand and Communist leaders on the other after their co-operation in last Monday's violent events which drove Ahmad Qavam from power.

Clashes between the security forces and partisans of various groups were reported to have taken place this evening on a limited scale.

Demonstrations broke out near the royal summer residence where Communists shouted slogans against Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevi. Armored vehicles were understood to have been standing by in case they were needed, but the demonstrators were said to have been dispersed quietly.

NAME CHANGED AGAIN

The name of Churchill St., which runs in front of the Soviet Embassy, was changed to Mossadegh St. for the fourth time by a group of volunteers from south Tehran.

On previous occasions the police restored signs bearing the name Churchill since the city government lacked authority to change the designation officially.

Churchill St., as well as Stalin St. and Roosevelt St., were named by the cabinet after the Tehran conference of the wartime Big Three.

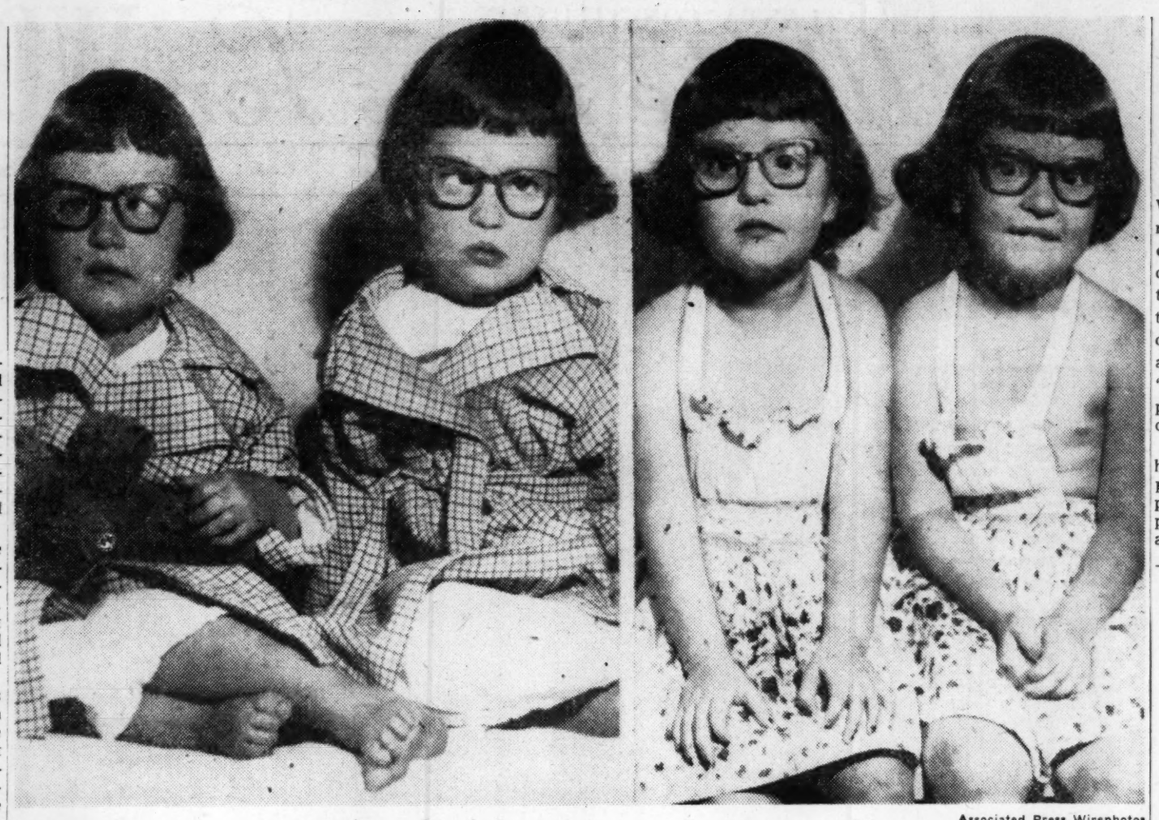

Nevertheless nearly everyone in Tehran refers to Stalin St. as Qavam St., its name before the Tehran conference and Churchill St. has been generally called the street of the French embassy.

ROOSEVELT ST.

However, Roosevelt St., the name for a large avenue that passes the United States embassy farther out from the center of the town, has been accepted by the public.

But Americans here had little reason for rejoicing today. Orders were understood to have been issued by the United States embassy and military mission officers to keep dinner parties small so as not to attract anti-United States demonstrations by a display of too many cars.

The conviction is almost universal, even in fairly high quarters, that United States officials were responsible for putting Qavam into power. Those who supported Qavam blame United States officials for bad timing, while those who opposed him regard the whole affair as another proof that Americans constitute a public nuisance. This is definitely not "admire Americans week" in Iran.

Misprint Stirs Suspicions of Chinese Reds

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

HONG KONG, July 25 — The Wah Kui Yat Po (overseas Chinese daily) said today it had received information from Canton of a striking correction in the Canton telephone directory. According to the Hong Kong newspaper the correction involved rectification of a misprint that had made the "secretarial section" of the Tatung public security sub-bureau come out as the "secret killing section."

The newspaper said the police had arrested a number of printing press and telephone company employees on the theory that the misprint was the work of nationalist agents.

Brutal Midnight Slasher Of Blonde Girl, 22, Hunted

Homicide detectives late Friday sought a 35-year-old man who brutally slashed a 22-year-old blonde in her apartment just after midnight.

Mrs. Alberta Marie Carpenter Russell, 22, of 821 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., was found moaning and in a fainting condition from loss of blood by her roommate at 11 a. m., according to Detective Lieuts. L. L. Bullard and W. D. Browning.

The woman, originally from Potomac, Ill., was working as a waitress in a Ponce de Leon Ave. restaurant, the detectives said. She had established residence here in order to get a divorce, they added.

When she came home early Friday morning, after visiting in a friend's home, the detectives said, a man was waiting in her apartment.

He used a razor blade or a sharp knife, the detectives said. The officers said Grady physicians took more than 70 stitches to close Mrs. Russell's wounds.

She was discharged and returned to her apartment with "several months" of plastic surgery appointments ahead, according to the detectives.

Sale to Reds Won't End Danes' Aid

WASHINGTON, July 25—(INS). President Truman announced today that military and economic aid to Denmark will be continued despite that country's delivery of a 13,000-ton tanker to Russia.

The White House made public a letter to key Capitol Hill committee chairmen in which Mr. Truman said terminating aid to the Danes would be "highly detrimental" to the security of the United States.

In identical letters to chairmen of several House and Senate committees, Mr. Truman said he had gone over the problem very carefully as had foreign aid director Averell Harriman.

"The issues presented by this case go far beyond the carrying capacity of an oil tanker and the physical volume of U. S. aid to Denmark," the letters said. "They go to the very heart of our Mutual security program."

The United States "deeply regrets" delivery of the tanker to the Soviet Union, Mr. Truman said, even though it was contracted for before the Communist aggression in Korea and long before the law was enacted on shipment of strategic materials.

But he added that this country feels "the aggressive intentions of the Soviet Union overrode legal considerations involved in the proposed transactions."

Mr. Truman said: "To terminate aid to Denmark would clearly be detrimental to the United States by weakening the defenses of NATO, contributing to the strength of the Soviet Union, fostering the political and propaganda objectives of the Communist bloc and defeating the purposes of the Battle Act."

Egypt Future Uncertain Under Iron Army Rule

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution
By MICHAEL CLARK

BEIRUT, Lebanon, July 25—Within the space of a few hours Wednesday morning the internal balance of power in Egypt was so profoundly and abruptly altered that the rules for the exercise of authority there may never be the same again.

The political consequences of the military coup that suddenly made Gen. Mohammed Naguib Bey commander in chief of the Egyptian army and undisputed master of the country are difficult to prophesy. The general's long-term intentions are still unknown, perhaps even to himself.

The intrinsic strength of his movement cannot yet be gauged with accuracy. But the weakness of his adversary, the royal palace, was demonstrated with dramatic effect. King Farouk, who on Tuesday had been supreme in Egypt, was Wednesday little more than a symbol of grace of Gen. Naguib Bey.

Since the introduction of parliamentary institutions in 1923 the Nationalist Wafd Party has established a political hegemony that only the palace was strong enough to contest. Broadly speaking the Wafd derived its power from the populace, while the palace derived its power from the army. The Wafd depended on mass appeal, the palace on fidelity.

Wednesday a part of the army stepped out of its traditional role as the obedient and humiliated guarantor of royal power and, constituting a third force, laid down a series of conditions that it imposed on the palace with a hand of steel.

It had long been known that discontent was brewing among the officers, especially the junior officers, of the army, but their coup came as a surprise. The collapse of the king's defenses, however, was even more disconcerting. Court favorites who had been placed in command of the army either scuttled for cover with the first whiff or powder or were arrested on the spot.

General Depot Given Army Safety Award

In a ceremony Friday afternoon witnessed by 10,000 military and civilian employees Maj. Gen. William A. Biederlinden, commanding general of Third Army presented the Atlanta General Depot an award for the installation's outstanding safety record in 1951.

Col. Frank G. Marchman, commander of the depot, accepted the award and told the gathering he was "indeed proud that the depot had made great strides in improving the safety record over the previous year in every way." He said it was the result of each employee being safety conscious and keeping safety precautions uppermost in their minds while on the job.

The Army presents the safety awards to installations that have substantially bettered their safety programs, cutting down on accidents and loss of manpower over the previous year.

This is the second consecutive year the depot has received the honor, William R. Knapp, Third Army Safety Director said as he introduced General Biederlinden.

Also at the depot for the presentation was Mauricio Markmann safety director of the Office of the Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C.

C. J. Phillips, depot safety director, opened the program by telling the personnel the purpose behind the annual Army award.

Police Aid Search for Father, 21

Police aid was sought Friday in a statewide search for a 21-year-old insurance salesman, missing from home for more than a week, according to Sgt. Charlie Blackwell, chief of the Atlanta Missing Persons Bureau.

Marvin Banks

The missing man is Marvin Banks of 866 Berle St., S. W., who left his home Wednesday, July 16, to go to a drug store to get a headache remedy, his wife, Sybil, told detectives.

The couple have a son, Ellis, who will be three in August. They had been discussing the child's birthday present before Banks left for the drug store, Mrs. Banks said.

"He's had these blinding headaches ever since I've known him," Mrs. Banks said, "and I'm just positive that he has amnesia or is very ill somewhere."

A druggist, who is believed to be the last person who saw Banks before he disappeared, reported selling aspirin to the young father, Sergeant Blackwell said.

Blackwell said he suspects either foul play or amnesia.

Johnny Ray Wows Atlanta Bobby Soxers

By PAUL JONES

Johnnie Ray, armed with his own brand of melodic tear gas, came to Atlanta Friday night amid one of the wildest bobby soxer demonstrations ever witnessed here and he promptly announced he had postponed his honeymoon originally scheduled for this city.

"We're going off somewhere and 'get lost,'" the celebrated "Public Weeper" said. "We're not telling anybody where—it's a secret."

The tall, thin singer whose tear jerker tunes have set a new pattern in music, left his bride, the former Marilyn Morrison, behind in New York, "to pack for the honeymoon," he said.

As he stepped from the Eastern Air Lines plane a screaming throng of teenage girls stormed out on the runway.

"Hold those kids back," said Ray's manager. "They'll tear his clothes off."

Ray, looking as if in some sort of a trance, stood on the steps of the plane. As the young girls surged forward he came down and began to sign autographs. Many of the girls stuffed notes in his pocket. En route to the hotel, the singer read the notes hastily and muttered such things as "sweet," "lovely," "wonderful" as he tossed each note from the car.

"I'm on an emotional island," said the singing star, who has worn a hearing aid since a childhood accident deprived him of most of his hearing. "I have no inhibitions, you know."

"I like to walk through revolving doors . . . have water pistol fights with members of the orchestra.

"My wife says I am not growing up fast enough. . . . But, I'm the happiest guy in the world."

As he arrived at his hotel, Ray planted kisses on the lips of four Atlanta girls and told them: "Now go home and get some sleep and I'll see you at the Fox Theater."

Ray opens a two-day engagement at the Fox Saturday.

Savannah Woman, 80, Found Dead; Probe Is Listed

SAVANNAH, July 25.—(AP)—An investigation will be launched into circumstances surrounding the death of an 80-year-old Negro woman who was found in a vacant school where authorities estimated she had been for eight to 10 days.

She was found by inspectors making their annual rounds. They took her to a hospital where she died shortly from malnutrition, according to the examining doctor.

Police Inspector R. D. Doney revealed tonight a statement the dead woman made just before she died which indicated she might have been the victim of foul play.

The doctor reported there were no signs of violence but police are looking for a Negro man they say took her to the school and threatened her life if she told police about him.

$185,709 Suit Filed After Auto Crash

A DeKalb County woman has filed a $185,709 damage suit against Chardles T. Lewis and the New York Central Railroad, as a result of the death of her husband following an automobile accident involving Lewis.

Mrs. Melba Henderson Spears says her husband, J. B. Spears, died of injuries suffered when their car collided March 14 with an auto driven by Lewis on State Highway 12 one mile north of Lithonia.

The suit says Lewis was an agent of the railroad company when the wreck occurred. It charges that Lewis was negligent in causing the wreck.

The amount asked by Mrs. Spears includes $181,920 as her late husband's earning capacity during his life expectancy; $2,713 in medical expenses arising from the wreck, and $1,076 in funeral expenses.

Lecture Scheduled

Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby will lecture on the subject of "Mental and Spiritual Planes" Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in the Ansley Room of the Ansley Hotel.

Teachers To Revise Handbook

By YOLANDE GWIN

A revised handbook for use and study by more than 2,000 teachers is nearing the completion stage under supervision by members of the Atlanta Public School Teachers Association.

The group is the local unit of the Georgia Educational Association.

"We hope to get it off the press by Sept. 1," said Mrs. Dorothy Floyd, the local president. "We feel that it will be of invaluable aid to the teachers already in the Atlanta schools, and to the hundreds of new ones who are entering the teaching profession. It has been 12 years since it was brought up to date."

"We are trying to concentrate on the pension plan to make it as stable as possible," said Mrs. Floyd, who is teaching summer school at the E. S. Cook School.

"We are also urging voting rights and the thorough knowledge of the rules of the Board of Education."

New teachers, she said, who will enter the local teaching realm in the fall will be afforded two formal opportunities to meet with the association.

On Sept. 3, a tea for 200 from the northeast and southeast sections will be held at the Druid Hills School and on Sept. 4 a corresponding number from the northwest and southwest sections will be entertained at the Progressive Club.

Schnebly Wedding Solemnized

Miss Julia Cromer Schnebly, daughter of Mrs. Walter J. Schnebly and the late Mr. Schnebly, formerly of Hagerstown, Md., became the bride of Alastair MacDonald Black of Atlanta Friday at the Central Congregational Church. Dr. Thomas Anderson officiated at the 7 o'clock ceremony.

The bridegroom, who was born in Calcutta, India, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruce Black, formerly of Fife and Renfrewshire, Scotland.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Roy N. Keller. Her sister, Miss Martha Schnebly, was maid of honor.

Ian C. Black was his brother's best man. Ushering were J. William Horne and William Reid Martin.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother entertained at a reception in the church parlors.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will reside at 880 Young Road.

The bride is a graduate of Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, and holds a master's degree in music from Yale University.

Interrupted by Naval duty, the bridegroom will resume his studies in industrial design at Georgia Tech.

Bishop's Wife Prefers Georgia Style Home

By AGNES McCARTY

"We aren't certain if we'll buy or build—but we want a house with lots of room, a library for my husband's books and a big kitchen where I can cook and rock my grandchildren."

Mrs. Arthur J. Moore was describing the home she and Bishop Moore hoped to purchase with the $20,000 they received as a gift Thursday from grateful Georgia Methodists in recognition of the church leader's 43 years of service.

"We love the house we're living in now—but it belongs to the church. We'll stay here until my husband retires," Mrs. Moore said.

The Bishop's wife thinks it will be "a lot of fun" to select a house after having lived in predetermined parsonages most of her married life.

"I've been more fortunate than many women whose husbands are in the ministry. We owned our first home in Texas and have moved surprisingly seldom—lived in about 12 different houses, I guess."

The Moores have already decided the new residence will be "somewhere in Druid Hills because we have so many friends in this section."

Sparkling Mrs. Moore, mother of four and grandmother of six, says her husband enjoys reading home decorating magazines. "He likes to hear about new slants on old ideas—doesn't care much for modern."

The Methodist leader's wife visions a large living room for entertaining the couple's numerous and frequent international guests.

She will also need space for the varied antiques and imports the Moores have acquired through their travels and associations.

"We prefer brick to frame because the upkeep is more economical—but we want a home with a big screened porch in the best Georgia tradition," Mrs. Moore said.

Bemler-Bean Nuptials Set For August

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bemler of Fort Myers, Fla., formerly of London, England, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Langdon Bemler, to William R. Bean II, the marriage to be solemnized Aug. 2 in the presence of the two families and a few close friends.

Miss Bemler, who has resided in Atlanta for the past year, attended Brenau College, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

She will be given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Henry McGee will be her matron of honor. Theo B. Bean Jr. will be best man for his brother.

Mr. Bean, son of Mrs. Theo B. Bean Sr. and the late Mr. Bean, attended Birmingham Southern College. He is vice-president of the firm of W. R. Bean and Son, Inc., and is also a member of the Printing Industry of Atlanta.

After a honeymoon, the couple will reside in Atlanta.

Children's Toys Designed To Meet Martian Monsters

NEW YORK, July 25—(INS)—Space guns and rocket ships have replaced cowboy pistols as the top trend in children's toys, and you'll be wise to put flying saucers instead of six-shooters under this year's Christmas tree.

The Joy Guidance Council today staged its annual preview of Christmas toys to come. Newsmen, photographers, educators and one little boy model agreed unanimously that junior will be armed to fend off Martian monsters, not Indians, this winter.

The little boy supplied a boy's-eye view of coming popular toys. He got into a space cadet outfit, complete with radio antenna on his hat, armed himself with a jet plane rocket gun that shoots six streams of water at once, hung a couple of space phones on his belt, and crawled into a 7-foot space ship made out of an erector set. For extra ammunition he clutched a three-way light-ray gun and a pistol that shot out flying saucers.

Miss Carroll Is Married

Mr. and Mrs. Mack B. Carroll Jr. of Dublin announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jean Carroll, to Eugene Alvin Russell of Atlanta and Nashville, Tenn., which was solemnized in Rossville with the Rev. H. O. Bowman officiating.

The bride was graduated from GSCW. She has been home economist for the Charles S. Martin Distributing Company in Atlanta.

Mr. Russell, son of the Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Russell of Nashville, Tenn., attended Vanderbilt University and Columbia University.

Sullivan-Dyer Betrothal Told

TALLULAH FALLS, July 25—Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Sullivan announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Jane Sullivan, to Sgt. Herman David Dyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Dyer of Tallulah Falls.

Miss Sullivan attended Piedmont College where she was a member of the Gamma Chi Society.

Sergeant Dyer is now serving with the U. S. Air Force at Knoxville, Tenn. His marriage to Miss Sullivan will take place in the early fall.

Hot Weather Reducing New Series Theme

Diets and exercises planned with the mercury in mind will be the subject of a three weeks series, beginning Monday in the Woman's Pages of The Atlanta Constitution.

Ida Jean Kain, recognized authority on calisthenics and nutrition, is the author of a daily column in the Women's Section.

The articles are especially written for women who long to take off extra pounds while the summer heat has curbed their appetites, and to groom themselves for a slimmer outlook in keeping with the fall fashion picture.

For complete information on hot weather slenderizing be sure to read Ida Jean Kain's special series starting Monday in the pages devoted to women's news in The Atlanta Constitution.

ALL HE NEEDS IS A FRENCH ACCENT
Sam Morgan Touches Up His "Chef's Special"

Guest Chef

Use Salt In 'Pinch,' Not Shake

By DOTTY LUNDY

A young bride once said that the only thing that kept her from becoming an expert cook was that she didn't know what a pinch of salt was.

Sam Morgan, chef at a downtown hotel, says that the flavoring is never quite the same out of a shaker. He prefers a pinch, just so.

And Mr. Morgan, with his 40 years experience in the field of the culinary arts, has every requirement for mastery of his profession, that is, except a French accent. He's from Alabama and proud of it.

Here is Mr. Morgan's recipe for his chef's special salad bowl, a hot weather favorite which he serves family style in a large wooden bowl.

CHEF'S SPECIAL SALAD BOWL

½ head of lettuce
1 tomato—chop
6 radishes
1 stalk celery
8 shrimp
½ bunch endive
2 slices chicken—cut Julienne (finger strips)
8 anchovies

Mix and serve in large wooden bowl.

SPECIAL DRESSING

1 part Taragan vinegar
2 parts olive oil
Salt—a pinch
White pepper
Paprika.

F-Family A-Adult

"Young Man With Ideas"—An unusual concoction of comedy, romance and family life has been rolled into this inoffensive little comedy which stars Glenn Ford and Ruth Roman at Loew's Grand Theater this week.

The story idea is a bright, novel one, but one which has not been developed to its fullest entertainment potential by MGM studios. There are moments of sparkling humor. But, for the most part "Young Man" suffers because of ineffective dialogue and clumsy situations.

Ford and Miss Roman are seen as husband and wife — a team which achieves both business success and domestic bliss, but only after Ford has encountered Denise Darcel, a showgirl, and Nina Foch, a career girl, in a series of comedy situations.

Morally not objectionable for the family. "F" classification.

Women Really Working At Democratic Convention

By RUTH COWAN

CHICAGO, July 25—(AP)—Women, take warning!

Judging from the activity at the Democratic National Convention, no longer can a woman who volunteers as a Democratic campaign worker expect just to pour tea and look pretty.

That word "worker" is to be taken seriously.

Wives of cabinet members and of candidates, women leaders and plain garden variety volunteers are going around with deepening circles under their eyes.

It is not from staying up late at parties, because with the exception of a shindig Mrs. Perle Mesta gave here there just aren't the usual parties.

It so happens that Chairman Frank McKinney of the Democratic National Committee, after observing even the toned-down gaiety at the Republican National Convention, sent out word to throttle down festivities.

As a result evening frocks are hanging unused in hotel closets. It isn't hard to get an appointment in a beauty parlor in the hotels crowded with delegates—if one had the time to sit under a dryer.

Instead there are "campaign schools," with the wives of cabinet members and women in office as instructors. Those two-day schools have been well attended even though they began at 8:30 a. m. Sponsors thoughtfully provide an eye-opening cup of coffee.

Women are working into the night on committees. Six have addressed the convention. Two are running for vice-president. And the densest smoke in any smoke-filled room was in a little private dining room where the backers of one woman for Veep planned strategy.

Women reporters reading through six to 10 page mimeographed speeches by prominent women, dashing here and there to news conferences by women who never held one before, have a new name—Simon Legree—for Mrs. India Edwards.

It is she, director of the Women's Division, who is turning the attention of Democratic women from tea parties to dead-serious political discussions. Under her prodding wives of cabinet members, instead of being honor guests at luncheons, are making speeches.

Cotton Futures Close Lower

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP)—Cotton futures closed 15 to 50 cents a bale lower today.

Apart from an opening flurry of trade and commission house buying which extended gains to 85 cents a bale, the general market trend was lower. Traders were inclined to take profits, following a brisk rally on Thursday.

The Department of Agriculture today expressed the view that cotton exports next season may be down 1,000,000 to 1,800,000 bales from expected shipments of 5,800,000 bales this season. While this coincided with the concept of most exporters at this time, the official expression of this outlook served to dampen buying enthusiasm among traders.

The Agriculture department also stated that domestic consumption for the next season beginning Aug. 1 may rise 100,000 to 600,000 bales compared with expected domestic use this season of about 9,200,000 bales. Private Atlanta advices stated that the principal mill demand for spot cotton this past week was for prompt and August-September shipment.

A fair volume of loan equities was offered for sale, but little spot cotton was offered. Memphis said there was good business done on a variety of qualities in new crop cotton. Private crop surveys were mostly on the favorable side.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP)—The cotton textile market was slow Friday. There were scattered sales of print cloths, with prices unchanged.

Demand for wool goods was slow.

Interest in rayon goods was limited. A producer raised prices on acetate yarns one to 12 cents a pound, reflecting the better demand for yarns.

Grains Slump After Rally

CHICAGO, July 25—(AP)—Grains scored only minor price changes on the Board of Trade Friday.

The market opened on a burst of demand which sent prices higher in all pits. Resistance to the upturn developed immediately, however, and once the overnight orders were taken care of trading simmered down to a slow pace.

Late in the session the market barely moved as local traders, who do not have to stay in the pits as commission house brokers do, went to the smoking room and watched the voting for the Democratic presidential nomination on television.

Wheat closed ¼-⅜ lower, September $2.33⅜-½, corn ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, September $1.77¾-½, oats ¼-¾ lower, September 80½-⅝, rye unchanged to 1¼ lower, September $2.06½-¼, soybeans ½-1¼ lower, September $3.04¾-$3.05, and lard 3 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $11.82.

BUSINESS ROUNDUP

Drop Seen In Cotton Shipments

The Agriculture Department predicted Friday that cotton exports will drop by 1,000,000 to 1,800,000 bales during 1952-53 but said domestic consumption will be slightly higher.

Relatively low prices of foreign cotton, adequate reserve supplies abroad and a drop in American-financed loans and grants for cotton shipments will account for the rather sharp reduction from the 5,800,000 bales sent abroad this season, the Department said.

It set domestic consumption during the coming year at 9,300,000 bales to 9,800,000, compared with 9,200,000 bales used during the current marketing year which ends Aug. 1.

Heads Puritan Sales

John W. Cripe has been appointed director of sales for Puritan Mills, Inc., Atlanta flour and feed company, General Manager Edward Brenner announced Friday.

J. W. Cripe

Cripe, former manager of the Philip H. Postel Milling Co. at Mascoutah, Ill., will take over his new duties Aug. 1. Puritan, with headquarters here, has branch warehouses in McRae, Gainesville, Blakeley, Andalusia, Ala., and Tampa, Fla.

RCA Gets Trophy

RCA Victor's southern region, with headquarters in Atlanta, has been awarded the J. G. Wilson silver trophy for outstanding achievement in the Engineering Products Department's 1952 sales contest. Elmer D. Eades is regional manager.

Gippert Anniversary

Frank J. Gippert, engineer in the general engineering department of Southern Bell Telephone Co., this week observed the 35th anniversary of his career with the firm.

F. J. Gippert

Gippert began his communications career in the plant department of the New York Telephone Co. in 1917 and joined Southern Bell in 1920. He is a member of the first aid committee of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross and serves on the staff of the State Civil Defense Health Service.

Two Banks Honored

Two Atlanta banks—The Trust Company of Georgia and The Fulton National—this week received merit awards from Financial World for outstanding annual reports. Both are now eligible for selection as best of industry to be named later by the trade journal.

Bates Awards Winner

L. T. Bates, Atlanta general agent of The Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., has been notified by Vice-President and Director of Agencies Cecil F. Cross that he is a winner in a special nation-wide sales contest honoring A. J. McAndless, company president.

DEATH LIGHTS UP THE SKY IN KOREA—This dramatic photograph by George Sweers, Associated Press war photographer, shows UN and Red troops lighting up the sky with deathly shells and bullets during the bloody battle for "Old Baldy," much-contested strategic mountain near Chorwon, Korea. Streaks at left are machine gun tracers. Other flashes are from artillery, rockets and mortars. Fighting continued Friday for the advantageous position.

"OLD BALDY" WOUNDED—A wounded GI is helped off an armored personnel carrier which picked him up during heavy fighting for "Old Baldy," strategic mountain in Korea. He was returned to a nearby aid station. Others in the stiff battle rest at roadside before re-entering the fray.

Flowery Flavors Close Flour Mill

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, July 25 (AP)—Complaints over bread in violet and other flowery flavors caused a flour mill in Leyden to close last Saturday and throw 120 millers out of work.

Their noses pointed to the source: a nearby cosmetics factory whose wafting fumes settled in the flour.

Today, pending court action to decide between bread and beautifying, Dutch Agriculture Minister S. L. Mansholt ordered the cosmetics people to close down because bread gets first priority.

Coffee Market

NEW YORK, July 25—(AP)—Santos coffee futures were steady today on local short covering and Brazilian buying which met only limited profit-taking. The market was influenced by a better demand for green coffee and expectations of a fairly light statistical situation in coffee during the current crop season.

Coffee spot Santos No. 4 closed at 54.62½-75a. Cost and freight offerings include Santos Bourbons 3s at 54.00-54.50a and 5s 53.00-53.50a.

Santos No. 4 "S" futures closed 1 lower to 20 higher. Sales 104 contracts.

REPLACES 'CAFETERIA' PLAN

New Farm Payment System Expected in 3,000 Counties

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—A new conservation payment ysstem, substituting planned programs for "cafeteria tsyle" aid, will spread to nearly all of the nation's 3,000 farm counties in 1953.

The system was tested in 48 pilot counties this year and Agriculture department officials are enthusiastic over results.

They predict a 28 per cent increase in farmers participating and 70 per cent more permanent conservation practices compared with 1950 in the test counties.

Administration leaders believe the new system will eliminate abuses which crept into the conservation program and led to attempts to curtail or eliminate it.

The Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) was designed to help preserve the nation's soil by granting government payments to farmers who carried out recommended conservation practices. Payments cover only part of the cost of the work.

The old program works like this:

A farmer who wants federal aid in a conservation project selects one or more approved practices from a handbook of practices approved for his county. He then notifies his county production and marketing administration committee, does the job and collects a check covering part of the cost.

Farmers have a free hand, at present, in selecting from among approved practices. These range from, permanent improvements such as terraces to temporary soil building measures such as liming and the use of fertilizer.

Complaints arose in some areas because farmers were said to be choosing temporary income-boosting practices year after year.

Congress appropriated some $251,700,000 for the program—about the same as last year. With these funds, Agriculture department spokesmen hope to spread the new ACP system across the nation.

It works this way:

County production and marketing committeemen, farmers themselves, visit each farmer taking part in the program.

If the farm has a development plan prepared by technicians of the soil conservation service ACP aid is outlined within the established plan.

If no technical program exists the committeeman and farmer work out an informal plan based on the needs of the farm. To qualify committeemen for their advisory job they'll be given brief courses by local technicians.

Puerto Rica Celebrates Independence

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, July 25 (AP) — Parades and flag-raisings signaled the rise of Puerto Rico today as a self-governing "free commonwealth" associated with the United States.

A crowd of about 35,000 cheered as Gov. Louis Munoz Marin raised the Caribbean island's own red, white and blue emblem in front of the capital to fly beside the Stars and Stripes.

Some wept at this official signal of the adoption of a new Constitution giving the 2¼ million Puerto Ricans the right to run their lives without direction from Washington save in defense and foreign affairs.

Puerto Rico feels honored in seeing its own flag floating by the side of the flag of the great North American union," Gov. Munoz said. "The union must feel satisfaction that the flag of a country, small but of great spirit, joins its flag for freedom's sake."

Parades were held in cities and towns throughout the island, which the United States wrested from Spain in the Spanish-American War. U. S. armed forces were represented in the San Juan parade by soldiers, sailors and a detachment of Marines and Air Force men from Ramy Field. As a territory, Puerto Rico has regularly celebrated the American landing of July 25, 1898, as a local holiday.

Boom Eases On Mart in Strike Wake

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, July 25—The bullish boom wore off slightly on the stock market today as profit taking followed in the wake of the enthusiasm over settlement of the steel strike. While the actual news of peace in the steel industry did not come until after the close of trading on Thursday the share list, during the business hours, anticipated that a truce was at hand. Prices advanced briskly. Today's reaction was a natural technical move.

The market for weeks had operated in an exceptional manner in view of the pinch the steel shutdown was putting on many industrial units. Therefore, it was not considered unorthodox for the list to retreat in the face of good news. The market has a habit of doing that.

The spread between the stocks to advance and decline was not too wide while the composite rate showed a reduction of 0.61 point. There were a few issues to show price changes well in excess of a point. Business on the Stock Exchange did not continue at the accelerated pace of 1,270,000 shares on Thursday and diminished to 1,130,000 shares. In slightly broader dealings, 426 out of the 1,082 issues traded showed inroads, 379 gains and 277 held stationary.

Steels were fractionally lower. U. S. Steel, second most active issue of the session on 15,600 shares, slipped ¾-point to a close of 40¼. Bethlehem gave way ⅝-point at 51, Republic declined ¼ at 42¼, while Youngstown faltered almost a point at 46.

Hupp Corporation paced the market in volume on 21,300 shares and added ⅜-point at 3¾. Chrysler was unchanged and General Motors fell ⅛-point at 58⅜. American Telephone was behind ¼-point at 158⅜ and American Smelting, softest of the metals, gave way 1⅜ points. Other weak spots were Allied Chemical and American Cyanamid. Oils were mixed as were the rubbers while aircrafts and mail orders exhibited slight reductions. Rails were off fractions to a point and more.

$439 Million Asked by Paris To Spur Arms

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — France has appealed urgently to the United States for an additional 439 million dollars to enable French factories to step up essential arms production, informed diplomats reported today.

The United States has reportedly promised 186 million for this purpose during this fiscal year. But the French insist a total of 625 million must be pledged immediately to help the French government to met military goals under the North Atlantic Pact master defense plan.

Secretary of State Acheson, Defense Secretary Lovett and Mutual Security Director Averell Harriman are studying the French appeal.

Top American officials see little chance of being able to provide the full amount requested by France without tapping funds earmarked for arms production in the United States.

The French put forward their case in a formal note handed to Ambassador James Dunn Monday. Ambassador Henri Bonnet followed this up with a call on Acheson the same day.

U.S. Grand Jury Returns 'No Bill' On Ousted D. A.

TOPEKA, Kans., July 25 (AP)—A special federal grand jury investigating ousted U. S. Dist. Atty. Lester Luther of Kansas today found there was insufficient evidence against him to warrant an indictment.

The jury made a similar finding in the case of Nicholas Lopes, who was one of Luther's assistants before joining the Justice Department's Criminal Division from which he resigned last May 9.

Luther was ousted June 19 by President Truman at the request of U. S. Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery.

The jury, which reported "no bills" in the case of both Luther and Lopes, had been called at McGranery's request.

McGranery had said he wanted the jury to consider evidence Luther shared in fees paid to lopes for representing the Dolite Company, Toledo, Ohio, in a tax case.

Steel Halt May Cause Oil, Gas Shortage

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—Government officials said today there may be shortages of oil and natural gas in some areas this winter as a result of the steel strike.

Deputy defense petroleum administrator Ed Warren said the oil and gas industries have lost at least 75 days of steel production for their expansion programs.

Saar Issue as Germans, French Okay Schuman Plan

By HAROLD CALLENDER
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, July 25—French-German discussion of the future of the Saar began here today as the result of a French effort to link the Saar question with the Schuman Plan and thus with the move for Western European intergration.

The meeting on the Saar between Robert Schuman, French foreign minister, and Dr. Walter Hallstein, West German secretary for foreign affairs, coincided with formal ratification of the Schuman Plan for a coal and steel pool and followed by only a few hours the decision to start putting the Schuman Plan into operation on Aug. 10. On that date the high authority and the court will meet at Luxembourg.

OBSTACLE TO UNITY

Schuman believes the dispute over the Saar is a major obstacle to European unity and to the success of the Schuman Plan. European unity can only be based upon a French-German partnership and this partnership can become possible only when the French and Germans agree on the status of the Saar, it is contended.

For this reason Schuman raised the explosive Saar question as soon as the foreign ministers of the six Schuman Plan countries met to decide on a site for headquarters of the plan. Schuman suggested that site might be Saarbruecken in the Saar and that that territory might acquire a new kind of autonomy under a European authority and a mutual guarantee by France and Germany.

Schuman's suggestion, enthusiastically backed by Alcide de Gasperi, Italian premier, was discussed at length between the French and Germans yesterday when Schuman, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany and others met at lunch. Afterward Adenauer agreed to talks on the Saar. A similar Schuman-Adenauer plan for such talks had fallen flat in April.

The Saar now enjoys local autonomy while economically attached to France. It was German before World War II and has been considered by many Germans as one of the territories to be regained when Germany is unified. It is therefore difficult for Adenauer to discuss giving the territory a permanent international status and it is assumed this can be done, if at all, only within the framework of some form or degree of a European Union.

MUTUAL CONCESSIONS

To this end the Germans would have to forego a territorial claim and the French doubtless would have to modify their present complete economic control of the Saar.

The fact that they have agreed to discuss such a settlement appears to mean that both Adenauer and Schuman are ready to consider mutual concessions and to urge them upon their more nationalistic fellow countrymen.

If the French and Germans agreed on a Saar settlement, European leaders would consider the chances of a real European Union greatly multiplied. If they failed to agree, it would mean that steps toward union would be slowed and limited, and that common action would continue largely on a national not a supernational basis.

Prescription Law Watered Down by FSA

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The Federal Security Agency (FSA) today issued a considerably watered-down set of regulations for enforcing the nation's first prescription law—omitting certain originally-proposed "interpretations" which had drawn fire from trade and professional organizations in the drug field.

The law is an amendment to the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetics Act. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) a part of the FSA, says the law is designed to safeguard health by giving, for the first time in American history, a federal legal definition of a drug requiring prescription—as distinguished from one that can be freely purchased over the counter.

The new law went into effect April 26. It requires drug manufacturers to label all prescription drugs sent to druggists with this legend:

"Caution: Federal law prohibits dispensing without a prescription." Omission of the label—or placing it on a drug which can be dispensed without a prescription—makes a manufacturer liable to punishment.

Coast Guard Hunts Boat; 3 Aboard

NEW ORLEANS, July 25 (AP)—The Coast Guard searched today for a woman and her two ex-Navy sons, reported overdue on a Gulf of Mexico cruise aboard a cabin cruiser.

The vessel, the Helen D., left St. Petersburg, Fla., July 18 for Mobile where a stopover was planned before continuing to New Orleans.

The woman was identified by the Coast Guard as Mrs. Edward Syson of South Bend, Ind. Mrs. Syson's sons' names were not given, but they are 28 and 24 years of age.

The Coast Guard said that Edward Syson, husband of the missing woman, feared the boat was overdue at Mobile and called the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station last night.

Syson said the boat left St. Petersburg with 300 gallons of gasoline and provisions for two weeks. He said there is no radio aboard the 47-foot cruiser and believes they may have had trouble with the engine's water pump.

The Coast Guard said the direct route from St. Petersburg is through a danger area in the Gulf used by the Eglin Air Force Base. Passage through the area, the Coast Guard said, is supposed to be cleared with the Air Force there.

A Coast Guard PBY patrol plane from the Biloxi, Miss., air detachment took off at 10:27 a. m. to search the line from St. Petersburg to the entrance of Mobile Bay, the probable route of the boat.

The flight was ordered by the Coast Guard after local area checks by Coast Guardsmen in Mobile and New Orleans proved negative.

The Coast Guard issued an emergency broadcast to all ships in the Gulf to advise the commander of the 8th district in New Orleans if the Helen D. is sighted.

U.S. Denies Charge Reds Shadowed

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 25 (AP)—A U. S. Army spokesman tonight denied a Russian charge that Soviet military missioners in West Germany are shadowed by German police.

The Soviet charge was broadcast yesterday by the official East German news agency ADN. The broadcast said the Russians were going to keep a check on the U. S. military mission at Potsdam, in the East zone.

The Russians claimed West German police are posted as sentries near where Soviet mission cars are parked. The American spokesman said these sentries are charged with the security of the mission.

Stiff Aftershocks Close California Cement Factory

TEHACHAPI, Calif., July 25 (AP)—The strongest aftershocks following Monday's major earthquake jarred Southern California today, causing slides and forcing the closing of a big cement plant near here.

Two severe jolts struck shortly after midday, loosening bricks in damaged buildings here and at Arvin.

There were no reports of casualties. Sycamore Canyon and Kern River Canyon roads were reported buried under large slides.

The Portland Cement Company, which employs more than 300, closed its plant at Monolith, three miles away. Official said they feared today's quakes might have increased damage to the plant to a point of danger.

In downtown Los Angeles chandeliers and light fixtures swayed briefly. San Francisco and San Diego also felt the shocks.

Wind, Hail Storm Lash Ark. Town

MONTICELLO, Ark., July 25—(AP)—A raging wind and hail storm lashed this south Arkansas town for 20 minutes this afternoon, scattering debris over the streets and interrupting electric power service.

The windstorm struck about 2 p. m., followed by hail and rain. There were no injuries.

Trees were stripped of their foliage by the high winds, and leaves and limbs littered the streets.

Power facilities were shut down for several hours. Telephone troubleshooters still were repairing communication lines late this afternoon.

The winds tore away the shingle roofs of many houses, but no serious damage was reported.
